S. F. Detectives Assert Man Accused of Embezzlement of Bonds From Employers Is Fugitive From Justice

Decoto Announces Probe of Gambling in Emeryville As Youth Tells of Having Lost Large Sums in That Place

Lester G. Ayres, who, is in the city jail facing a charge of embezzling funds belonging to the Great Western Power Company, which first employed him as head of the bond sales department in its Oakland office, today is facing a number of other charges, and his record is being looked into by the local police following the receipt of a letter today by the Oakland police from the "Chief Detective Agency" in San Francisco, in which it is alleged that Ayres is a fugitive from justice and is wanted in a number of cities for cashing fictitious checks.

The detective agency, the letter states, had occasion to look into Ayres' record soon after he was married on March 1, 1920, at the St. Francis Hotel. According to the detective agency, the management of the hotel informed them that Ayres, on the eve of his wedding, had arranged for a wedding dinner in the hotel dining room, and had asked for credit, which was allowed him. He promised to pay for the dinner, but failed to do so. The agency alleges that in looking into the man's record they learned that Ayres was arrested in San Francisco on March 16, scarcely three weeks after his wedding, on a charge of cashing worthless paper in

AGENCY SAYS FATHER MADE GOOD CHECKS

He was held for the Omaha authorities and a sheriff was sent from Omaha to take him back. About this time, Ayres' father, the agency alleges, who is G. L. Ayres, head of the American Express Company in Chicago, made good the checks which had caused his sons' arrest, and Ayres returned to San Francisco. It is also alleged by the agency that Ayres cashed thirteen checks in various parts of the west and middle west, amounting to several hundred dollars. The checks and the amount obtained by the agency, it is alleged, were used by Ayres to pay for his living expenses and the names of the firms which cashed them are supplied the local police by the detective agency.

According to the San Francisco police, Ayres was arrested on March 16 and held for the Omaha authorities. The record of the arrest does not indicate that he was returned to Omaha.

When confronted with the report of his arrest, Ayres refused to talk, saying that he desired to see his lawyer, Henry Skinner, before he disclosed any information.

According to the detective agency, Ayres at the time of his arrest admitted to two of his operatives who he had been cashing paper in Omaha and elsewhere. The places where he cashed checks which he is alleged to have admitted were: Gee Hotel, Boise, Idaho, $192; Yellowstone Hotel, Pocatello, Idaho, $75; W. H. Bohlsheldt, Pocatello, Idaho, $275; Delco State Bank, Idaho, $90; Wilson Hotel, Salt Lake, $50; Utah Hotel, Salt Lake, $150; Wisconsin Hotel, Milwaukee, $50; Dubuque Hotel, Iowa, $50; Quincy Hotel, St. Louis, $50; Statler Hotel, St. Louis, $75; St. Nicholas Hotel, Springfield, $30, and others.

His arrest occurred three weeks after his marriage, and his wife learned of the affair, according to the agency, but announced that she would remain in the city, and that she refused to discuss her husband's predicament.

DECOTO ANNOUNCES PROBE OF GAMBLING

During the war Ayres attended the officers' training at Fort Monroe and won the rank of second lieutenant.

Ayres appeared in court this morning for arraignment before Judge McCall and his preliminary hearing was set for June 23.

Ayres' claim that he lost $8000 of the Great Western Power company's funds gambling at Lake in Emeryville, known as Dugan's, is being investigated today by representatives of the district attorney's office. District Attorney Ezra Decoto announced yesterday that he would conduct a vigorous investigation of all gambling places in Emeryville in an effort to stamp out the menace.

George Sawyer, former partner with Granville Todhunter in the conduct of the Avenue Inn, who is alleged to have cashed Ayres' bonds, is now in the east, having left Monday, shortly after he had been apprehended by the Omaha police. Decoto said that he was not sure if the money he had lost.

Labor Rejects Referendum on War Declaration

American Federation Against Taking Power From Congress

DENVER, June 23.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor today voted down a proposal calling for an amendment to the constitution of the United States taking the power of declaring war from Congress and placing it in the hands of the people through referendum vote.

The official roll call showed that 21,742 votes were cast against the war referendum and 4,430 for it.

The United Mine Workers and the International Association of Machinists, with a total of 6933 votes, cast their ballot for the war referendum, as did the Railway Carriers, the Carpenters' Union, the second largest in the federation, with the majority of the Building Trades organization, and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The roll call showed that 188 delegates were against the war referendum and 103 for it.

The debate that preceded the voting was long and bitter, those favoring the resolution saying that the ones who have to fight should have a say in the war.

The resolution declared that the proposal "is impractical and a nightmare. Attempts to settle the matter by a referendum would be a disaster to the country and to the world."

PROPOSAL DECLARED TO BE IMPRACTICAL

Those opposing declared the proposal "impractical and a nightmare. Attempts to settle the matter by a referendum would be a disaster to the country and to the world."

MEAT PACKING CONTROL IS ASKED

A resolution was adopted asking Congress to limit to 1/2 per cent the spread between the rate charged member banks by the federal reserve system and the rate banks are permitted to charge.

Representatives of the Kansas mine workers' organizations were commended by the convention for their stand against the Kansas industrial court law. The resolution declared that the vote of the men for "so courageous" opposing this law in the face of injunctions and prison terms and preventing the law from taking effect, "is a shining example of the organized labor."

ISSUES ON WHICH LEWIS HOPES TO WIN

Government ownership of the railroads and nationalization of the mines and other progressive legislation will give the workers and the toilers of America the freedom and justice in industry they deserve.

Stand for health insurance, old age pensions and unemployment insurance—all progressive measures for the relief of the working masses. The enactment of laws covering the workers and giving them the workers adequate protection and reward them for the service that they have rendered industry."

RELATIONS WITH EUROPEAN UNIONS

Lewis said that he had taken no definite stand on the subject of relations with European trades union movements, adding:

"I believe, however, that some logical position can be worked out by the American labor movement in connection with the International Federation of Trade Unions. Of course, the auto-

MISQUOTED! SIMS TELLS SEC. DENBY

Admiral Spends Two Minutes "On Carpet" and Explains Statements Attributed to Him Incorrectly Reported

Impression Prevails Worst the Veteran Navy Officer Will Receive Is a Reprimand for Alleged "Indiscretion"

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, June 23.—It took Rear Admiral William S. Sims just two minutes by the clock today to explain to Secretary of the Navy Denby his famous "carpet" speech in London which resulted in his being peremptorily ordered to return to the United States.

Admiral Sims informed the secretary in one of the shortest interviews on record that he had been misquoted by the press in the reports of his speeches made to this country, whereupon Secretary Denby asked him to reduce his explanation to writing and that ended the "carpet" session from a personal standpoint at least. At the conclusion of the short session, Secretary Denby received newspaper reporters and said: "DENBY ACCENTS OF STATEMENTS."

"Admiral Sims denied the accounts of the statements attributed to him. He said he had been incorrectly quoted and gave him a written memorandum setting forth those statements and asked him to inform me in writing where he was incorrectly quoted and to tell me, if he could, what he did say in that speech."

Secretary Denby would give no hint as to the nature of his future action in the Sims case and he would add nothing to the brief statement made at the close of the interview.

Admiral Sims spent an hour in Admiral Countz' office, at the end of which he conferred with a staff officer which he had written out in long hand for Secretary Denby and left it with him.

"I have given the secretary my statement," said the admiral, "there's anything further to be said on this story, Secretary Denby will say."

He then returned to his hotel. SIMS PREPARED TO DEFEND HIS SPEECHES.

The impression prevails in Washington that the admiral's speech in London will get for him "indiscretion" as a reprimand, if he gets that. It is said the indignation against the admiral which was so marked immediately following his speech in London in which he described a large portion of the American electorate as "jackasses," has to a large extent cooled.

LEWIS WAGING HOT FIGHT FOR HEAD OF A. F. L.

Despite Claims of Opponents Compers Is Confident of Re-election.

Any of the American organization must be fully guaranteed. "In any event, I do not believe we should lose contact with the European organization and we should be in communication with that body. "All my policies," he continued, "will be formulated on a sane and constructive basis and be designed to meet the adequately dispose of the great issues that confront organized labor as they exist today." While President Compers issued no statement, supporters speaking in his name, stated that "his record as the American labor movement during the past forty-one years would re-elect him to the presidency." This made the issues between the two candidates clear, as President Compers has been on record against government ownership, unemployment insurance, health insurance and other similar proposed legislative measures. Supporters of both candidates continued their campaigns at top speed today, carrying their electioneering to the floor of the convention, where they were from group to group of delegates soliciting their support. Little change, however, was shown in the line-ups for the candidates. The Lewis boomers made public a telegram sent by John Hessler, president, and William Mitch, secretary of the Indiana district, United Mine Workers, to Frank Harrington, president of the Illinois district, Robert Harlan, president of the Washington district, and Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas district, urging them to vote for the mine workers. All three of these district mine leaders are delegates to the convention and are reported opposed to Lewis. A telegram said that the executive board of the Indiana district had held a meeting and canvassed the situation, and it was "convicted that the bulk of the Indiana miners overwhelmingly favored a change in the presidency of the American Federation of Labor." More than 100 resolutions from local miners' unions in all sections of the country have been received at the Lewis campaign headquarters. It was stated, approving the candidacy of the miners' chief and urging his support.

SAN LEANDRO, June 23.—A meeting of ex-service men will be held at the city hall tonight for the purpose of forming another post of the American Legion. John McNeill of the Hayward post is behind the movement to organize San Leandro post. More than 20 ex-service men have pledged themselves as members of the new post.

BRITISH GENERAL EXPLAINS ULSTER SESSION ABSENCE

Army Chief Says He Did Not Wish to Bring Politics Into Military.

LONDON, June 23.—(By Associated Press.)—What purported to be a copy of a letter Field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, chief of the imperial general staff, sent to Prime Minister Lloyd George, giving his reasons for not accepting the premier's invitation to attend yesterday's opening of the Ulster parliament, was circulated today in Irish headquarters here. The field marshal's reasons for declining to go to Belfast is as follows: "Being the senior officer of the British army I do not think it right or proper for me to be present. In view of the fact that the government is determined to increase its pressure on the south and west of Ireland to bring the Sinn Fein rebellion to an end, and that orders for all troops to go over will emanate from me, I think, perhaps, it would bring politics into the army if, as preliminary to ordering thousands of troops over to crush the rebellion, I was seen to take part in the opening of a northern parliament. The copy of the letter was printed in the Irish Bulletin.

MONARCH'S RETURN. LONDON, June 23.—Relief over the safe return of King George and Queen Mary from Belfast was expressed by this morning's newspapers, which also voiced appreciation of their courage in making the trip to the Irish city to open the Ulster parliament. Editorials warmly approved the king's address, especially his plea that the Irish forgive and forget and join in making for the land they love "a new era of peace, contentment and good-will."

COMMENT ON ADDRESS. DUBLIN, June 23.—Commenting upon the address of King George at the opening of Ulster parliament at Belfast yesterday the Irish Times said this morning: "If southern Irishmen will allow themselves to think soberly we may hope yesterday's events at Belfast will begin immediately to improve the prospects of peace. Henceforward no Irishman who is not a fool or a fanatic can ignore the significance of the northern parliament." The Irish Independent said: "Division in Ireland is fostered by Great Britain for her own ends. If there was honesty in British politics, if

Mystery of "Vanishing" Ships Still Is Unsolved

By RUSSELL BROWNING United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, June 23.—The fate of the "vanishing ships" today threatened to go down in history as one of the unexplained mysteries of the sea. Officials of the department admitted a search for the twentieth century pirate, undertaken after all other theories to explain the disappearance of a half dozen boats off Cape Hatteras failed, so far had produced no results.

SOME STRANGE FATE. "I've heard many tall yarns of the sea," said Eugene T. Chamberlain, commissioner of navigation. "But in this case, the facts are there. The members of the king's cabinet decided to apply the principle of state-manship and not force a remedy strife would be ended and discontent would be allayed in Ireland."

RED CONSPIRACY. NEW YORK, June 23.—(By Associated Press.)—Disappearance at sea of several American ships within the last few months was linked by the New York police with plans revealed in raids on radical headquarters a year and a half ago, for the seizure of these vessels at sea and their diversion to Russian Soviet ports.

SPUD MURPHY IS SEEKING LIBERTY; $20,000 RAISED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—That Spud Murphy, convicted Howard street gangster, has been able to raise the $20,000 necessary to secure his release on bail, was the statement of his counsel, Attorney Ernest Spagnoli, who petitioned Superior Judge Michael Roche today to bring the defendant over from San Quentin. The court continued the matter until Saturday for consideration. Spagnoli said that if Judge Roche would not make the order, allowing Murphy to give bonds, pending his appeal, he would take the case to Presiding Judge Shortall.

BIBLE BASIS OF LEGAL FIGHT IN FRESNO COURTS

Suit Is Brought to Bar King
James' Version From the Public Schools.

Is the Bible, or more particularly, the King James' Version of the Bible, a sectarian and denominational book and therefore necessarily barred from the libraries of the public schools of the state of California, because of the provisions of the state constitution? Or is the Bible the foundation of all religions, Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, Mohammedan and Mormon alike? Are the various translations of it and the sects having their foundation in it, immaterial as far as introducing one version of it into the public schools is concerned?

These questions, vitally affecting the development of religious education, and as a matter of fact the development of the highest type of literature in the state of California, according to officials of the California State Sunday School Association and other religious organizations of a similar nature, will be decided in the courts of Fresno county within a few months.

SUIT IN COURT.
The answer, whether it be final or the beginning of a long and bitter fight in the higher courts of the state, will come as the decision in the case of Elbert L. Evans vs. Selma Union High School District of Fresno county, a public corporation, with P. A. Dodson, J. B. Crocker, C. W. Christensen, Walter Stanley and Joel H. Smith as trustees thereof.

The test suit, which was instituted in the courts of Fresno county some months ago, for the purpose of testing the interpretation of the provisions of the state constitution and more particularly Section 1672 of the Political Code of California, by Attorney General U. S. Webb, on March 20, 1920, which was as follows: "In my opinion, the reading of King James' Version of the Bible, as a religious exercise or its use as a text-book in the public schools is prohibited by the constitution and the laws of this state."

Elbert L. Evans, the plaintiff, is a taxpayer of Fresno county. The defendants are members of the board of trustees of Selma high school.

TRUSTEES ENJOINED.

The suit was brought to enjoin the trustees of the high school from purchasing twelve King James' Versions of the Bible to be used in the library of the high school, the plaintiff contending that "said books are placed in said school library, the same will be read by the students thereof, and the result will be that the denominational and sectarian doctrines will be taught in said school in violation of the constitutional provisions hereinabove set forth, that the entire money paid for said books will be wasted and the burden upon the taxpayers of the district will thereby be increased." For this reason, the books were placed in the library, the complaint states, "the Selma Union High School District of Fresno county will lose all state and county appropriation of school moneys."

Following the suit filed by Evans, George Enos, also a taxpayer of Fresno county, as intervenor, asked for an injunction to prevent the purchase of the books, and on motion of plaintiffs' and defendants' attorneys, the case was submitted to the court on briefs.

Attorney E. S. Page of Oakland, who is representing the defendants in the test case, states the purpose of the case in his brief, as follows: PURPOSE OF CASE.
"There is really no question in this case, viz: Is the Bible a book of a sectarian or denominational character? It becomes important to determine the meaning of the terms 'sectarian' and 'denominational.' The Bible being the foundation upon which all Christian sects and Mohammedan sects as well, cannot be called a denominational or sectarian book, for it is used to teach the tenets of all sects."

He replies the plaintiff has this to say: "Where is that utopian universal Bible, which defendants contend is the foundation of all sects; the Jew, the Catholic, the Protestant, the Mormon, the Mohammedan, et al. Is it the Jewish Bible, or the Catholic Bible, or the Mormon Bible, with its seventy-two books, or the King James Bible, with its thirty-nine books, or is it the Mohammedan Bible or Koran?"

Decisions of various state courts, which have now become laws of those states, are quoted at length in the briefs upon which the case was submitted.

STRIKE ON CRAFT OF SHIP BOARD IS DECLARED OFF

Engineers Returning to Work;
Case of Privately-Owned Vessels Unsettled.

Word from Ernest Pegg, verifying
the agreement made between engineers and the United States Shipping Board in Washington has resulted in the decision of the marine engineers around the Bay to return to work on the government vessels. Insofar as the shipping board ships are concerned, the marine unions announced today, the strike is ended.

The agreement does not in any way include privately owned ships, unions and shipowners both assert. William Kincaid, director of operations for the shipping board here, said today that the decision would mean the departure of a large number of ships within the next few days.

While engineers are reporting for work on all manner of ships today,
Captain Jory of the Sea Service Bureau, says that it will be weeks before any employment may be given on the privately owned vessels. The Pacific American Shipping Association, through J. P. Williams, secretary, said that for lack of business
a large number of ships are tied up and that, while engineers would be accepted at the shipping board
terms for a while, the association will not agree to continue those terms for any length of time.

scant costumes and the charms they failed to cover, were intended to be hidden by opaque waters and obscuring foam. But lo, the most shapely of them all has upset the old tradition anent the bathing beauties. We speak of no less a "B. B."
than Marie Provost, as charming a mermaid as ever displayed two highly acceptable substitutes for a fish's tail.

Miss Provost's aquatic skill is probably responsible for the fact that King Baggot, director and erstwhile film star, and Nat Ross, assistant director, are alive today.
They were filming a scene beside a marble swimming pool at the Coffin home in Pasadena, when Ross overcame by the heat, fell into the water.
Baggot dived in after him, struck his head on the bottom of the tank and lost consciousness. Miss Prevost plunged into the water and rescued the two men, thereby furnishing, for the first time, proof that a movie bathing beauty actually knows how to swim.

BORDER BROKERS PUSH TRADE OF U. S. AND MEXICO

LAREDO, Tex., June 23.—Border
brokers have been energetically pushing trade between the United States and Mexico and in some instances brokerage firms have even purchased locomotives and other railroad equipment on account of inadequate equipment and congestion on the Mexican railroads. One firm, it was learned today, not only has bought 15 locomotives but has employed a former general manager of the International and Great Northern railroad as its transportation manager, with headquarters in Monterey.

Ramon P. Nigras, personal representative of President Obregon of Mexico, in management of the railroads, has been quoted as saying there will be sufficient locomotives in Mexico in 30 days to move all traffic and that within two months trains will be running on regular schedules.

AUTOMEN AGAIN DECLARE STATE ROADS DEFECTIVE

Highway Commission Charged With Obsolete Pavement
in Statement.

The State Highway Commission has persisted in following an obsolete pavement design long after its inadequacy had been demonstrated,
and millions of dollars of highway funds are wasted annually, says the California State Automobile Association in the eighth statement charging extravagance to the commission.
Not one of thirty-five states engaged in extensive road building programs are constructing pavements as light as five inches in thickness; only six states are building pavements six inches thick and all have a greater minimum width on trunk lines, the statement reads, than California.

"In considering the subject of width and thickness of pavement on state highways in California," the statement said, "it is important to remember that California ranks third in total number of registrations of motor vehicles. The big five in motor vehicle registration are rated as follows for 1920—both automobiles
and motor trucks:

Autoist Exonerated by Coroner's Jury

A coroner's jury has exonerated Grover W. Miller, real estate broker, of all blame for the accident which
on Saturday night killed William McCain, a street car conductor, who was riding in Miller's machine when it collided with another machine at Fifteenth avenue and East Twelfth street. The jury's verdict was that McCain met his death in an "unavoidable accident."
Theodore Peterson, the driver of the other machine, testified that just before the accident, he changed his course and that it might have confused Miller. He refused to say that Miller was traveling at a high rate of speed or that he was under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident.
Miller was arrested after the accident and charged with manslaughter.

MISSION WORK AFFECTED BY WORLD UNREST

John D. Rockefeller's Gifts to Baptist Society in Year
Total $2,000,000.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 23.—Notable progress in educational work among Negroes and Indians in this country and among the people of Central America, the opening of an international Baptist Seminary to train preachers for work among foreign-speaking people, establishment of a boys' camp applying the "Plattsburg idea" to religious training, and creation of an architectural bureau to help make religious buildings more effective, were among features of the 89th annual report of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, presented by Dr. C. L. White, executive secretary, at the Northern Baptist convention here today.

Schools for Negroes and Indians have been taxed to their utmost capacity, according to Dr. George R. Hovey of the education department. Through gifts from the general education board and John D. Rockefeller, the salary of teachers in these schools is being increased and new buildings provided at Bacone Indian College, Bacone, Okla., and at the house College, Atlanta, Ga. Indians of Oklahoma have given $175,000 to aid Bacone school.

27,017 POUNDS OF MILK GIVEN BY RECORD COW

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 23.—Bella Pontiac, the record cow owned by T. A. Barron of Brantford, has set a new record. The official test of the Holstein Friesian association, it was announced today, showed that for the fiscal year ending June 15, Bella Pontiac produced 27,017 pounds of milk, 125.9 pounds of fat, and 1573.35 pounds of butter.

net Call Barnes, the society is co-operating in 150 towns and cities in missionaries and church extension work. Recommendation is made for more aggressive organization for smaller cities.

Among the foreign-born on attitude of bitterness, due to suspicion and indiscriminate charges of radicalism, to the coming of prohibition and propaganda about Sunday restrictions, Dr. Brooks reports, has hampered Americanization. However, on the Pacific coast much has been accomplished among Oriental workers being sent among Chinese and Hindus. Mexicans, too, have responded well.

Schools for rural pastors, just instituted during the last year, are shown to be valuable. Increased use of automobiles to enable pastors to cover more territory is also found to help. Need of training for more preachers is emphasized as a means of meeting rural and community service problems.

In addition to establishing a boys' camp at Cranberry Lake in the Adirondacks, where selected boys will be trained along religious lines, the Baptist Brotherhood Federation has increased its membership during the year and now includes 600 groups.

MURRAY CONTEST TAKES NEW ANGLE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—With the receipt here today of news that suit has been filed in the federal court in Tacoma to set aside the transfer of $400,000 worth of Tacoma property of James A. Murray, late millionaire mining man of Monterey and Montana, to James E. Murray, his nephew, the sensational Murray will contest, involving an estate of $10,000,000 appeared more complicated.

One of the controversies in the suit came to a head in local courts yesterday when W. S. K. Brown, special administrator of the estate, sought to get an injunction to prevent May A. Murray, a niece, from disposing of assets valued at $120,000.

The complaint in the Tacoma suit was also filed by Brown who alleges that the property there was transferred by deed to the nephew the day after Murray died and that the nephew now claims ownership of the property. The court is asked to set aside the deed.

Brown secured from Judge Truitt an order forbidding Miss Murray to make any disposition of the assets pending trial of the suit. Attorney Walter H. Linforth appeared before the court shortly afterward and caused this order to be dissolved.

Linforth declared that Miss Murray claims the assets as being her private property, they having been given her during the life of Murray, and that she expects to have no difficulty in establishing her claims when the case is tried.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Barbour at Farragut and King avenues in Piedmont, was the setting last night for the marriage of their only daughter, Miss Anna Le Breton Barbour, and Gustaf Helmer Lindberg of Tacoma, Wash. Eighty-three o'clock was the hour of the ceremony and the Episcopal ritual was read by Rev. Alexander Allen, rector of St. Paul's Church at Adams Point.

The home was "done" in pastel shades of sweet peas, roses and delphinium, garlands of the same adorning the chandeliers and forming the nuptial bower beneath which the marriage vows were exchanged.

The bride's gown, one of the handsomest worn by a bride this season, was of white crepe, the skirt hung in panels embroidered in tiny crystal beads. The bridal veil, an heirloom, was of rose point lace hung from the shoulders with a shorter veil of tulle.

A Juliet cap of rose point lace held the outer veil to the coiffure. Lilies of the valley, gardenias and white orchids made up the bridal shower bouquet.

Miss Martha Lindberg, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore a pink tulle veiled in white silk net, the overskirt bouffant. Pink and blue garlands hung from the waist line and a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas and roses.

The Misses Harriet Hunter and Laura Curry wore orchid georgette over pink chamoisee, the gowns being trimmed in French flowers and their shower bouquets harmonizing.

Mrs. Madeline Ross Clifford and Mrs. G. Willard Miller were in the blue georgette over pink satin, lace of the same being used in the trimming of the gowns and their flowers were of the varied sweet peas and roses with delphinium.

Udine Lindberg was best man for his brother, the usher being Raymond Mitchell, George O'Brien, Orra Hyde and Willard Miller.

An elaborate wedding supper was served to one hundred and fifty guests with a reception and dancing following.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg are to make their home in Tacoma upon their return from their wedding trip. The bride, who was graduated from Miss Ransom's school, devoted her time to war work under Mrs. Wallace Alexander during the world war. Since the announcement of her betrothal she has been the motif for many smart luncheons and teas the past month.

Lindberg is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Lindberg of Tacoma. He served overseas with the 363d Infantry, and was awarded the Belgian war cross.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Maltby and E. Walton Hedges will take place in Concord June 28. One hundred and fifty guests will motor out for the ceremony at which Bishop William Ford Nichols of San Francisco will officiate. It is to be a 5 o'clock service. Miss Lorene Kinney is to be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Carolyn Maltby and Margaret Whitman. Irving Woodward will be best man.

OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDINGS. Miss Doris Alexander, whose marriage to Louis Thiel will take place Sunday afternoon, is to have a garden wedding at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Alexander in St. Helena. Mrs. Robert Graff of this city will motor up to be matron of honor for the bride-elect while other attendants will be Mrs. Emmet Britton of Piedmont, Miss Nina Westbie, Mrs. Harold Gifford and Miss Dean Cornwall.

Miss Alexander was a graduate of Mills College and later studied in Boston.

Thiel received his degree from the University of California and from Columbia University.

Mrs. E. B. Gogerty, mother of the bride, will leave soon on a motor trip through the southern part of the State, where she will spend a month.

MRS. ALBERT J. COOGAN of Alameda, one of younger matrons and a member of Linden branch of the Baby Hospital Association, the branch maintains one of the handsomest booths at the annual fair each year.

Mrs. Richard Aley and her daughter, Jane Aley, are here from their home, Louisville, Kentucky. They started west some time ago, but were called back because of the recent death of the matron's brother-in-law, A. T. Hart, Republican leader, at Washington, D. C. They are now visiting in the bay region, where they will spend the summer and later will visit Aley's relatives in Pasadena before returning East.

A bridge luncheon was given yesterday by Miss Ethel Orwig at her home in East Oakland, in honor of Miss Jeannette Fulcher, bride-elect of Raymond James Sheehan. The marriage of Miss Fulcher and Sheehan will take place June 28 at St. Francis de Sales church. Since the bride, Mrs. Cunningham has a studio announcement in Chynoweth road, where she is frequently hostess at tea.

The Requa home is distinctive for its early Victorian furnishings, being as noted for its architecture and stucco grounds as it was forty years ago when first built. IN CALIFORNIA THEY ARE BORN WITH FURS ON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—A. G. Hinshaw is going to introduce some real chickens to Broadway. He was en route to the Dempsey-Chapman fight today, carrying a basket of eggs from which the first peeps of new-born chicks were emerging.

"They'll be full of pep when I hit New York," Hinshaw said, "and I'll show those easterners that in California our chickens are born with their summer furs all on them."

The eggs were from Petaluma, "the world's egg basket," by many friends on this side of the bay.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Carter have arrived from Dallas, Texas, to spend a month with their daughter, Mrs. William K. Dunn, and Mrs. W. A. Miller at their home on Sixty-sixth street. This is their first trip west, and they are being entertained with motor trips and informal affairs in the nature of teas, luncheons and dinners.

An exhibition of basketry and painting will be held the remainder of the week, beginning this afternoon in rooms 321-322, St. Mark's hotel, by Mrs. Robert R. Cunningham. Mrs. Cunningham has a studio announcement in Chynoweth road, where she is frequently hostess at tea.

ALL BAY CITIES WILL CONFER ON BRIDGE PROJECT

Committees From Many Organizations to Discuss the Plans of Finance.

Concrete plans for the calling together of committees of all organizations around San Francisco Bay to consider the bay bridge project were being made today with the purpose in view of discussing ways and means of financing.

The movement to bridge San Francisco Bay between Oakland and San Francisco, which was originally launched by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce in 1916, was given the support of the Oakland Merchants' Exchange yesterday when a committee was appointed to aid in the movement that is now under way. The committee consists of P. Scott, J. C. Downey, Wilbur Walker, E. H. Hart and W. H. Graham.

BIRTH OF PROJECT.

The first steps in the "bridge the bay" movement which was recently revived and which is now well under way, was taken in 1916 when a hearing was held under the direction of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce at which time bridge experts and engineers offered plans of construction. One plan was to build a bridge from the Alameda mole to the foot of Mission street, while another called for a suspension bridge from the Oakland side, beginning somewhere on the Emeryville waterfront and extending to Goat Island and then bridge the gap between the island and the mainland of San Francisco with another suspension span.

The San Francisco end would end on Telegraph hill and another plan called for a bridge to Goat Island and a tube the rest of the way, in order to avoid congesting bay traffic.

ARMY TAKES IT UP. Soon after the hearing in Oakland the matter was taken up with the United States army engineers who recommended that in the event a bridge was constructed that it be built below Hunter's Point. The army engineers favored a tube. There the matter rested until Admiral Jayne got behind the project several months ago and urged that a bridge be built with its central piers on Goat Island.

The original movement when the first concrete steps were taken toward securing a bridge was also endorsed by the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland which body also secured testimonials of the bridge.

Recently the Oakland Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to co-operate with the committee from San Francisco which body is also sponsoring the bridge plans.

One Salary Raise Barred by Error

SACRAMENTO, June 23.—There was gloom today among the reporters and assistant reporters of decisions of the supreme and appellate courts for the learned men will receive the salary increases which the legislature voted, even though the bills were signed by Governor William D. Stephens. Here is the reason.

One bill, SB 232, provided for increasing the salary of the reporter of decisions from $2,500 to $3,500 a year, the salaries of assistants from $2,400 to $3,000, and the salary of the bailiff from $150 to $200 per month. Another bill, AB 203, provided for increasing only the salary of the bailiff $50 per month.

Both measures amended the same section of the code and passed the legislature and were signed by the governor. But the trouble is the bill increasing the salaries of the reporter's bailiff was signed first, and the one raising the salary of the bailiff only was approved last. Consequently the last measure signed is made the law.

Lions Have Luncheon At Boy Scout Camp

Oakland Lions Club held its regular weekly meeting at the Boy Scout camp in Dimmock Canyon yesterday, instead of at the Hotel Oakland. Two hundred members were present, and were given an excellent luncheon by the boys. Demonstrations of what the Scouts can do along various lines were featured. Scout Executive Bemis gave a talk on the subject of the daily camp routine of the Scouts. A few remarks were made by the Rotary Club in doing for the Boy Scouts were made by Postmaster Rosborough. The Lions were also addressed by Le Roy Goodrich. Among other features was the auctioning off of straw hats, the proceeds going to the Boy Scouts. There was also talk of the possibility of the camp being procured by the latter body for the purpose of giving an opportunity to undergo a period of intensive training along the line of the Scouts.

Former L. A. Official Guilty of Bribery

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Walter Lips, former chief of the Los Angeles fire department and deputy sheriff, was convicted of bribery late yesterday by a jury in the Superior Court here. It was charged Lips and W. J. Anderson, also a deputy sheriff, released Joseph Furay, arrested by them as alleged "bank" man when Furay's wife paid them $12,000. Judge Sidney Reese set next Saturday morning as the time for imposition of sentence. Anderson, Lips announced an appeal would be taken. The trial of Anderson, indicted jointly with Lips, is set for next Monday morning. Furay is serving a term of imprisonment in the Fort Worth, Tex., penitentiary.

Bridge Over Bay Boosted By Motor Car Dealers

The following facts and figures were cited today by members of the Motor Car Dealers' association as an argument to show why Oakland and San Francisco should be connected by a bridge spanning San Francisco Bay.

During last year 49,339,317 crossed the bay.

It is estimated that during 1921 the total will be at least 53,000,000.

In 1920 the Southern Pacific ferries carried 28,946,439 persons, an average of 73,825 persons per day.

During the same period the Key Route carried 14,907,429.

These figures, gathered by the association, are given out to show the transbay traffic, and according to heads of the organization, indicate without doubt the financial success to be achieved by either a bridge across the bay or a tube beneath it, to say nothing of the increase in rapidly of transit.

The San Francisco Advertising club members yesterday pledged their support to the project. The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce also endorsed the proposal in a resolution.

AD CLUB MEN BOOST. A F. Lemberger, secretary of the San Francisco Motor Car Dealers' association, speaking at the Advertising club's luncheon at the Palace hotel, San Francisco, yesterday, said that all towns of the bay region are behind the bridge movement.

Some time ago, said Lemberger, the motor car dealers realized that the business in autos that it should they first blamed it on then sales forces, and as a possible way of remedying this defect they brought here a flying squadron of crack salesmen.

These experts worked for two weeks and reported it could not be done. This alarmed the dealers and they appointed a committee to find the cause.

This committee waited one day at the ferry terminal, where one of the automobiles waiting impatiently to board ferry-boats for a spin on the other side of the bay. More of the committee drove down the peninsula and they saw long streams of twenty-foot roads. Then they realized that San Francisco had sufficient means of transportation, but not sufficient roads to travel on.

S. F. BOTTLED UP. "Here was the answer to the problem," he continued. "San Francisco could only get out of the city by one twenty-foot road and a few ferries every hour, for passengers and machines. Imagine 600,000 people bottled up in a big city, hemmed in, with only a few ferry-boats and one narrow road as a means of getting anywhere."

"We realized that the city must grow, must develop, must find a way to get out. Then the bridge idea dawned. The motor car dealers raised $100,000 who seventy-one of them, to be spent in a campaign for a bridge. Already we have spent $25,000 to this end. We are causing to come to San Francisco and explain the necessity and feasibility of the bridge plan over San Francisco bay. John Vipond Davies and Ralph Modjeski, two international engineers, are here next week."

TIME IS MONEY. Distance today is measured by minutes not miles. We can not get new industries to come here unless we can save them time which is money. The time which is lost in building across the bay says, "No, it is out of the question. It takes me an hour and a quarter to get there. No business house or industry will come to me unless I can offer them adequate facilities. We must not in the worship of our past industrial achievements, the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, the railroads, tunnels etc., need not be forgotten, but we must have the bridge if we want to maintain our rightful title of the metropolis of the Pacific Coast."

THE TRIBUNE'S INFORMATION Bureau will answer all questions of a general nature except school or legal problems, debates, trade and firm names and queries as to the time of day.

If answers are desired by mail stamps must be enclosed. Quickest results can be obtained by telephoning to the bureau. If you have any problems of a general nature, solve them by asking THE TRIBUNE'S INFORMATION Bureau, Lakeside 6900.

The other query was "What is the ex-halter's religion?" Lutheran.

Staff Councils of Army Hold Session

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Three staff councils of the Salvation Army were on today's program of spring councils and a special session of divisional officers will be held tomorrow, with evangelistic services on Saturday evening and Sunday. Staff officers from all portions of the western territory are present in the city for the annual general conference banquet last night at the social and relief department. The purpose of the gathering was to give them an opportunity to get acquainted before the annual council of the coming five days. Chief Clifford was the principal speaker at the banquet.

Graduation of the first class of students from the Territorial Training college will take place on Monday.

Three in Family Are Run Down by Auto

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Three persons belonging to one family were injured when an automobile ran them down at Mason and Market streets at midnight. The man is a German, his wife is his daughter Rita, of 2335 Pacific avenue, were crossing the pavement when a car driven by A. Fitzgerald of 445 Forty-fourth avenue, care down upon them. They tried to dodge out of the way, but were struck by the side of the machine and knocked down. All received severe cuts and bruises, which were treated at the Central Emergency hospital.

New Lighthouse to Be Placed on Tahoe

TRUCKEE, June 23.—To aid navigators on Lake Tahoe, a new lighthouse will be built by the light-house service of the Department of Commerce.

The light will be placed on the extreme tip of the point, at the highest elevation, and will extend above the ground level twenty feet. Upon the completion of the new lighthouse, the light now located at Rubicon Point will be permanently darkened.

$5,000,000 PLOT LAID TO FORMER SHIP OFFICIALS

Conspiracy to Defraud Government in Supplies Sales Is Charged.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Charges filed with United States Attorney Frank Salva, to the effect that H. E. Miller formerly in charge of sales of surplus supplies of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Barde Company of Portland, Ore. entered into a conspiracy to defraud the government of approximately $5,000,000 were further investigated by United States secret service operatives here today, preparatory to being placed before the Federal grand jury.

The United States attorney and his assistant both refused to discuss the matter, but admitted that the charges had been filed. It was learned, however, that the main charge is that Miller, as director of sales for the Shipping Board, refused to present to Washington any bids other than those received from the Barde company, the latter's bid being so low that Admiral W. B. Benson, chairman of the Shipping Board, rejected it instantly. The investigation of the alleged conspiracy then followed.

FAVORITISM CLAIMED. Miller, it is said, received bids from I. J. Rosenberg local dealers in steel, Julius Gollober, government auctioneer in San Francisco, and others, whose bids for west coast materials were higher than the Barde bid, but by his refusal to present the bids to the department in Washington, there was no opportunity for their acceptance, the consequence being that only the Barde Company bids were forwarded to the report, were considered by the head of the Shipping Board.

The value of the west coast supplies were appraised by the government at $12,000,000. Miller, it is claimed, reappraised the materials and set the valuation at $5,000,000. Barde's bid was 10 to 20 per cent of the appraised valuation and that of Rosenberg and Gollober was for 43 per cent. Barde's bid, it is said, was approved and forwarded to Washington, while the other bids of the local concerns were pigeonholed.

Miller, who severed connection with the Shipping Board January 21, explained his position in the matter today as follows.

MILLER'S STATEMENT. The Barde concern submitted a bid on all of the material and accompanied it with the necessary check. The bid was but one higher than the entire property, that of the Rosenberg Iron and Metal Company of San Francisco. This bid was not accompanied by a certified check, and for that reason could not forward it to Washington.

"All bids were ultimately rejected by the government and the material is yet unsold. I deny absolutely that any partiality was shown in the matter of bids."

LUMBER CUT BIG. TUCUMNE, June 23.—The West Side Lumber company is cutting 6,000,000 feet of timber daily at its two camps above here, breaking all its past records. Over 300 men are employed in the forest camps and a like number at the mill at this place.

SCOVELL NOT TO CONTEST WIFE'S DIVORCE SUIT

Declares He Was Merely Entertainer, Not War Hero; Claims Irving Kinship.

Announcement was received here today from Portland, Ore., to the effect that Benjamin Scovell would not contest the divorce suit of his wife, formerly Miss Bernice Scovell, now a University of California teacher, whose wedding to the self-styled "Colonel," lecturer, entertainer and "war hero," here in June of 1920 was the subject of considerable discussion.

Their matrimonial bark came to grief several days ago, after the marriage which followed a rapid romance and courtship, when Mrs. Scovell fled a divorce in Alameda county courts alleging that the war record of her husband won't stand inspection and that his vivid stories of Vimy Ridge were a product of imagination. Scovell, according to another charge in his wife's bill for divorce, represented himself to be a son of the late Sir Henry Irving.

According to the word received here from Portland, Scovell declared that he is physically and financially unit to contest his wife's suit for divorce.

He said he "was simply an entertainer and not a hero." He said that he had not been wounded in action but hurt in an accident. He emphatically maintained his relationship to Sir Henry.

Members of the Portland Post, No. 1, of the American Legion, last night expressed sympathy for Scovell. He did not claim anything but an entertainer and made no pretense of being a Canadian veteran wounded at the front, a Harvard graduate or an honorary colonel, said Jay Coffee.

Preparedness Is Motto of Youth Who Seeks Wife

SAN JOSE, June 23.—Harry Edelman, 26, just out of the United States navy, is looking for a wife. All that the proper lady has to do is sign the dotted line and Harry will do the rest.

At least, that is what he told Deputy County Clerk H. Hogan this morning when he appeared at the marriage license bureau and applied for a license.

"Where's the girl?" queried Hogan of the youth.

"Girl?" came the reply. "I haven't got her yet, but I'm a fast worker and I've got hopes. I'm ready to settle down now that I've got out of the navy and I'm looking for the right girl. I want to be ready, so I came for the marriage license. We can leave the place for her name blank and then when I find the right one I'll land her while the going's good."

Then Hogan informed Edelman, who readily gave his name, that he was assuming a policy a little contrary to custom, whereupon the apparently none too disappointed youth sallied forth, commenting as he went:

"Well, then I guess I'll have to go and drag one in here."

MAN ACCUSED AS SMUGGLER TELLS STORY, POLICE SAY

Confesses Bringing Chinese In But Will Not Tell On Higher-Ups.

SAN JOSE, June 23.—Robert L. Burton, held in this city since last Saturday under suspicion of being implicated in a widespread plot to smuggle Chinese into this country from Mexico, today, according to police officials, confessed to Chief of Police J. N. Black and Federal Immigration Officer Howells, admitting his complicity in the smuggling ring and divulging details which may lead to the arrest of numerous others in the Mexican party, with the subsequent ending of a ring which is believed to have been operating on a lavish scale in the Chinese traffic.

Burton, 35, who is married, is said to have refused to name any of the "higher-ups" in the ring, declaring that he would continue to refuse to name them. It is said to have been in this refusal that the men that has held back his confession for several days.

According to the confession, police said, Burton, together with several others, received his orders to smuggle the six Chinese taken from a refrigerator car at Watsonville Junction last Friday, from Calixto to Francisco, from a wealthy man in Mexico, on the Mexican border.

Burton states that this man gave him a letter to a man in San Francisco, whom the confessor refused to name, to whom the six Chinese men were to be delivered, whereupon he was to receive payment for their delivery. No payment on smuggling had been made until the Chinese are safely delivered, Burton states.

Numerous other men are engaged by the heads of the smuggling ring, including Burton, who is said to be getting the Chinese into freight cars, Burton is said to have declared.

The six Chinese seized at Watsonville Junction, it is said, were smuggled over the border at Calixto under cover of darkness and placed in the car of cantaloupes in which they were found.

Immediately following his confession to Chief Black and Federal Officer Howells, Burton was ordered rushed to San Francisco, reaching that city last night. He will face federal charges there. He is a young man, only 24 years of age, and displays a fine sense of loyalty, officers say, to those by whom he was employed.

Officer Howells had high praise for Chief Black and San Jose officers for their work in the smuggling case. Several other men are still held here.

BANDITS INFLECT WOUNDS ON MAN IN S. F. HOLDUP

Proprietor of Small Store Is Robbed of $300; Bakery Shop Looted.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Two automobile bandits perpetrated two successful holdups in different parts of the city today, inflicting severe beating to one of their victims and escaping with money and jewelry to the value of approximately $300.

Shortly after midnight the pair entered the fruit and candy establishment of Thomas Pappas, 157 Seventh street, in the shadow of the federal building, and asked for a glass of soda. As the proprietor turned to draw it, he found himself facing a revolver. One of the bandits backed him into a rear room, struck him over the head and took $150 in currency and his watch and chain.

Meantime the second robber took $200 from a register. Both jumped into a black automobile with Pappas, with blood streaming from a scalp wound, in pursuit, but he failed to get the car's license number.

The same pair a half hour earlier, entered the bakery of Mrs. Mary Dowd, 1871 Fillmore street, and while one of them forced her into a car, the second took $70 from the till.

Frank Mate, jitney driver of 1355 McAllister street, early today was approached by a man who asked to be driven to San Jose. Ocean avenues. Just before reaching there his fare asked him to stop. As he did so a car which had been following, drew up and two masked bandits stepped out with revolvers. They took $5, his watch and pin and told him to wait five minutes and then come back for his car. He turned in and the two masked men and the robbers leaving together in their own machine.

Inheritance Loaned T. R., Says Woman

HILLSDALE, Ind., June 23.—A strange story of an estate inherited and money strangely loaned out during the last of the Republican National convention in June, 1912, was related yesterday by Mrs. Emma Richardson Burkett, who has filed a claim against the Theodore Roosevelt estate for $2,000.

Mrs. Burkett's story says that she was the victim of clever confidence game men, that she really did have the money in cash and turned it over on a joint note signed by Roosevelt and one Charles J. Shunson.

Mrs. Burkett was reticent at first and refused to discuss the case, stating that Colonel Roosevelt at the time the loan was made had promised her there would be "no notoriety about it."

When informed that attorneys for the estate had been charged with the loan, she told such features of her side of the case as she wished to reveal.

Her story, pieced together and placed in chronological order, follows:

The alleged loan was made June 21, 1912. Early that morning in February, she had received word of the death of a wealthy uncle, Henry Richardson, who spent most of his life in the West and was his own daughter, an illegitimate child named Mary Kenney. He left a will providing that Mrs. Burkett should take charge of his money, $20,000, and turn over the interest to Mary Kenney for a specified number of years, at the end of which time she, Mrs. Burkett, was to receive the principal as her own.

"This daughter was always a wayward girl and for that reason her father disinherited her," said Mrs. Burkett.

"It was the only one in the family who would take her in and aid her when she was in trouble and it was that reason that the money was left to her."

"As the will provided she was to receive the interest on the money, I naturally wanted to see that it was safely invested."

"I consulted with James G. Peyton, a Civil War veteran and an old friend of the family. He knew about the will and the money, which was in a safety deposit box in Danville, Va. Both the will and the alleged note bearing Colonel Roosevelt's indorsement are in the Chemical National Bank at New York City, acting as Mrs. Burkett's representative in the matter."

"It was while the convention was in progress," said Mrs. Burkett, "that I received a letter from Judge Peyton saying that he had arranged for a loan and for me to come to Chicago. There I met this man Shunson for the first time. Theodore Roosevelt was in the room at the time. I saw him sign the note and I saw Shunson sign it. I didn't care much about who Shunson was because Colonel Roosevelt was beyond question as to integrity, and I considered it a safe investment."

"Are you sure it was Colonel Roosevelt and not some man posing as the former President?" she was asked.

"I knew Colonel Roosevelt too well for them to fool me that way," she snapped.

Peyton died in the Old Soldiers' Home at Quincy and the last Mrs. Burkett heard of Shunson was in 1916, when he went to France on some errand, the nature of which she never has been able to ascertain. But Shunson, she says, paid her the interest on the loan, 7 per cent up till 1917.

"That was you going to see Mrs. Longworth about?" she was asked.

"Oh, I have talked with her before."

"What did she say?"

"She said, 'apiently, but you had better ask her about it. She told me she was like her father, and that when she set her head on anything she usually got what she wanted after. I told her my father was born on the same day as Theodore Roosevelt, October 7, and that I inherited the same characteristics.'"

Mary Is Peeved Over Story She's Prize Fight Fan

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Mary Pickford's world-wide reputation for mental poise and for her ability to keep cool and calm under any conditions suffered a rude shock today.

Mary was peeved. In fact, she was downright wad. It was all due to a report that she had bought $3500 in tickets to the Carpenter-Dempsey fight. And that she was going to take most of her company to Jersey.

The report is not only untrue, but absurd," said Mary. "I never saw a prizefight and never will."

At Miss Pickford's studio it was believed the report was spread by New York fight ticket speculators.

MAN CONFESSES STEALING $500 MANY YEARS AGO

Torn from his wife and baby when liberty seemed about to be his, Dan S. Bryant was returned to jail today because of a statement which he made to the police.

Bryant, formerly an employee of the American Express company, was arrested on a charge of stealing a case of eggs from the company.

When his application for probation came before Judge George Samuelson a week ago, the court asked if he had been in trouble before. Bryant promptly admitted he had taken a roll of $500, amounting to $500, from a desk in the company's office a number of years ago, the disappearance of which had until then remained a mystery.

Today Mary Bryant, the wife, came into court with her three-month-old baby to plead for her husband's release. When the court announced the present charge would be dismissed she threw her arms around his neck while her face lit up with joy.

Then Judge Samuelson announced that a new warrant charging grand larceny in connection with the $500 theft had been issued and Bryant would have to be held on that charge. The little wife's sudden joy turned to grief as her husband was led back to jail.

PREMIERS HEAR POLICY PLANS OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Plans to Be Developed to Give Dominions Voice in Imperial Diplomacy.

LONDON, June 23.—(Canadian Press).—The imperial conference did not hold a formal session today, having adjourned after Lord Curzon's speech yesterday until Friday. It is planned to discuss the Japanese alliance early next week.

Curzon's speech was a comprehensive and highly confidential review of the British foreign policy. The conference agreed that the address should not be published. Lord Curzon took the conference completely into his confidence and invited the delegates to interrogate him. The invitation was freely accepted. Premier Methuen of Canada and the other premiers, subjecting him to what practically amounted to a cross examination. The foreign secretary, it is known, did not touch upon the Japanese alliance except in a general way and neither advocated that it be denounced nor renewed. He dealt at great length with the diplomatic conference in London, held in Paris with Premier Briand, and the general lines of British policy both in Europe and in the Pacific. So far as could be ascertained, meaning that they have a voice or influence in the direction of execution of the policy. One solution for this situation suggested is dominion ministers resident in London, but few believe that a resident minister would be in position to exercise much influence or guidance over the foreign minister, forthright in his action and experts and others intimately familiar with Old World affairs. The problem will come up when that part of the agenda is reached calling for the new status of the dominions.

Petaluma C. C. Man Back From East

PETALUMA, June 23.—H. W. Kerrigan, secretary of the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce, who has been in the east for the past five months, returned home yesterday. Kerrigan's sojourn in the east, south and middle west, was for the purpose of conducting a campaign for a new crop of members. His efforts have been successful, insofar that he has interested the leading produce organizations, and many farm bureaus of the country in adopting resolutions to Congress urging such a measure. Kerrigan will review his activities in this campaign.

Man Badly Burned by Lamp Explosion

BYRON, June 23.—C. P. Richards, a traveling salesman for Albers Brothers, may lose his life as a result of burns sustained last Tuesday night at the home of his father-in-law in Byron. Richards was spending the night at the ranch of H. P. Vinegar, and when retiring overturned the coal oil lamp, which caused an enveloping fire. His father-in-law, who lives in Livermore, was notified and rushed to his Byron ranch, taking with him a nurse and physician. Richards' condition is serious. He was taken to Mrs. M. Aylward's hospital in Livermore. He has been unconscious since the accident. But this morning physicians said that there was a slight chance of recovery.

Woods District to Have New School

WOODBRIDGE, June 23.—The Woods school district has carried a $50,000 school bond issue by a vote of 10 to 1. This is the richest district in the county. So sure were the trustees that the election would carry that they already had plans prepared for the new school. Work will begin at once on a five-room structure, which is so arranged that additional units can be added as the district grows. It is to be fitted with every modern convenience. The old building has been in use for fifty years and is in a dilapidated condition.

Man's Success Depends on Woman, Says Miss Stillman

(Written by MARGERY BEX for International News Service.)

NEW YORK, June 23.—Her views upon married life were expressed strikingly by Mrs. Anne Urquhart Potter Stillman when she gave an interview at the home of John E. Mack, in Poughkeepsie.

Presiding at a dainty tea table on the front porch of the Mack residence, Mrs. Stillman, who has been bitterly and publicly attacked by her husband, James A. Stillman, nevertheless maintains her composure and is able calmly to discuss her opinions.

"I blame the system under which we live," Mrs. Stillman is now referring to the husband who would repudiate and condemn her. "If his father only brought him up right!"

"About his home there was the old-fashioned secretiveness, no love, affection or recognition of the part these emotions play in life—no knowledge of their proper place in our existence."

"Such people don't appreciate just how real these things are—how real to other people."

"I still believe—at least I hope—that Stillman can be a success in the world if he will. But he has given up his time and attention to a woman who has almost hypnotized him—who, for instance, has filled up his mind with a lot of stuff about rabbits, penning, carrying about a rabbit's foot for luck and equally silly things."

QUESTION OF MONEY.

"This woman has been able to instill in him this lawsuit against me and his child."

"How much do you think such a woman would care for him if he had any money?" she smiled mockingly, a spark of fun in her gray eyes.

"Would he be so popular if he were poor, do you think?"

"Does my whole future depend on the whim of the present suit?" she repeated in reply to a question. "No, indeed. Whether I win or lose I shall have the satisfaction and self-confidence that come from knowing one's self in the right. Doing the way, I would suffer no loss of morale, no matter what the outcome."

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO PARKING TO BE LIMITED TO THIRTY MINUTES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—One man was fatally injured and two others badly hurt in a collision at noon today between an automobile and a motorcycle at Oakdale and Buena avenues. The injured are:

Michael Hayes, 57 Cordova street, fractured skull, lacerated scalp, serious injuries to neck, right arm, leg, broken right leg, serious fractures, 1632 Florida street, two fractured ribs, contusions and abrasions.

Urson and Seabey were riding tandem on a motorcycle when there was a collision with a machine driven by Hayes.

Woodmen Baseball Teams Will Battle

SAN JOSE, June 23.—Members of the Woodmen of the World, are anticipating keenly the coming championship baseball games between the local order and the Eucalyptus Camp, No. 124, of San Luis Obispo, which are to be held July 3 and 4 in this city and Salinas. The games will settle the championship of the coast line district of the W. O. W.

The first game will be played on the Santa Clara sodality diamond here July 3. The second diamond battle will be held at Salinas July 4 and a big delegation will journey from here to root for the local aggregation.

Keen interest is also manifested in the Woodmen's dance to be staged at Salinas on the night of July 4. Under the auspices of the Eucalyptus Camp, No. 289, of that city. The event promises to be one of the most elaborate of the year.

Autoist Is Held On Drunkenness Charge

BERKELEY, June 23.—Richard Richardson, hollermaker, of 1820 Sixth street, now facing trial in the federal court in San Francisco, as a bootlegger, was arrested last night by Patrolman Frank Swain for driving an automobile while intoxicated. Two other charges, driving a machine without an operator's license and having no lights on his automobile, also were made against him.

Richardson was arrested some months ago for operating a still at his home on Sixth street. The charge of bootlegging was dropped because of the disappearance of the principal witness, but on a second charge he was fined $1000.

Richardson's preliminary hearing was set for Saturday morning by Judge Robert Edgar. Bail was fixed at $1000.

THE SAME OLD TACTICS.

The Southern Pacific Railroad company asked permission to discontinue its electric train service between Oakland and Alameda, both the "dinky" line between the two cities and the line between Fourteenth and Franklin streets, Oakland, and San Francisco by way of the Alameda mole. Then it tried to delay the hearing of its request before the State Railroad commission. The old role of obstruction has been adopted. Frivolous, unsound, immaterial reasons are presented for delay. There is a fictitious claim that the railroad corporation wants a survey made by a traffic committee, when the Southern Pacific has known every angle of the traffic situation in Oakland since the first rail was laid in the Eastbay district.

Whatever tolerance may be shown Southern Pacific tactics, no permission should be granted for the abandonment of any existing transportation facilities. It is vital to the prosperity and the convenience of the citizens of Oakland and Alameda that the two electric lines between these two cities be not discontinued. The direct ("dinky") line running through the heart of both cities is of particular importance.

Fast service, direct service, and adequate service is vital to all the Eastbay cities. One of the most beneficial improvements that could be inaugurated in this district would be an express service between Oakland and Berkeley. It is a distinct handicap that no fast service between these two cities now exists.

Instead of decreasing the service between Alameda and Oakland, there should be an improvement. This demand, it so happens, is exactly the thing that has provoked the Southern Pacific to resort to its old tactics of coercion, brow-beating and bushwhacking in order to drive the citizens of Oakland and Alameda into abandonment of their demand for more adequate transportation facilities.

Some time ago a demand for a new bridge across the Estuary to supplant the existing Southern Pacific bridges, which hinder navigation in the inner harbor and obstruct surface communication between the two cities, was made. The War Department ordered the removal of the present obsolete bridges. The Southern Pacific entered into a contract with the people of Alameda county to stand half the cost of a modern bridge of the lift type. The people voted a bond issue to provide the public's share of the cost.

Since then the Southern Pacific has resorted to every means to get out of its obligation. During the war, when the chairman of the Southern Pacific's directors was head of the war priorities board, an order for delay was sought and obtained from the federal government. Since the conclusion of the war further efforts of delay have been made—and successfully.

Now the Southern Pacific makes the threat to abandon the electric lines between Alameda and Oakland in order to get out of its contractual obligation to construct a new bridge. It seeks the railroad commission's aid in carrying out that threat. And when the time for a hearing on its threat arrives it pleads delay on that. If the railroad commission will follow the matter far enough it probably will find that behind the flanking maneuvers of the railroad corporation there is also a plot to gain further delay in compliance with the commission's order to make certain improvements in the terminal depot at Fourteenth and Franklin streets in Oakland.

The Southern Pacific Railroad is one of the very few public utilities corporations in the country to adhere to the old, discredited policy of obstructing public progress and improvement. Practically all the public utilities have adopted the policy of helping community advancement, of trying to get along amicably with the public they serve. But the Southern Pacific continues to fight and bulldoze and strangle efforts at improvement.

The Eastbay communities have a population of 350,000. They have been generous supporters of Southern Pacific service, but the railroad corporation has never done anything to deserve their support. The railroad has always acted as a hungry, selfish exploiter; never in the spirit of cooperation, mutual good will and mutual respect. It cannot be that the railway commission will abandon the Eastbay district to the merciless, grasping tactics of any railroad corporation. There are two improvements vital to the progress of the cities on this side of the bay: one is the building of a modern bridge across the estuary that will not obstruct navigation and at the same time will permit easier and quicker surface travel; the other is the improvement of the dilapidated depot lay-out at Fourteenth and Franklin streets in Oakland. The Southern Pacific's badly-colored maneuvers to escape its share in these undertakings cannot be permitted to prosper.

WHERE ARE THE LOST SHIPS?

Eight steamships and twelve sailing vessels, of different registries, have been reported "missing" since January 1 of this year. Four of the ships flew the American flag. Nothing but the most fragmentary and unsatisfactory reports have been heard from any of these ships or their crews.

There is mystery aplenty in their disappearance. It is impossible to believe that storms destroyed them all, for then wreckage would have been strewn upon various sea coasts. They could not all have been unseaworthy and sunk through their own defects, for some of the lost vessels listed were sturdy sailing craft of an old and careful regime of construction.

The Department of Commerce at Washington reports that a bottle has been picked up which came from one of the lost ships bearing a note from an engineer officer, saying his ship was being attacked by another craft, apparently a submarine chaser, and that there was no hope for them. Another story is to the effect that an abandoned vessel drifted upon an Atlantic beach, with only a chattering parrot aboard. The crew had disappeared. The suggestion that a pirate ship is at large and seizing commerce carriers has been advanced, with some supporting evidence.

Certainly here is something that demands the attention of the marine department of every trading nation. Ships and their crews have vanished. There is no explanation. The causes and circumstances must be ascertained. The conclusion that crimes may have been committed is unavoidable.

MEXICO'S DEBTS.

According to an official statement by the Secretary of Home Affairs, the total public debt of Mexico amounts to 426,791,555 pesos, or $213,395,778 U. S. currency. Of this amount the foreign debt, in round numbers, in U. S. currency, is $143,472,000. This foreign indebtedness is divided as follows, also in round numbers: Mexico City municipal loan of 1889, $6,763,000; consolidated loan of 1899, $48,603,000; four percent gold loan of 1904, $37,156,000; four percent gold loan of 1910, $50,949,000.

This total indebtedness of a trifle more than $213,000,000 is not a large obligation for Mexico to meet, providing there is sound administration of Mexican finances and reasonable opportunity for realizing on the business and industrial resources of the country. It can be met without any great hardship if Mexico works, while the government maintains an effective control over the destructive activities of banditti and revolutionaries.

The amount due foreign creditors, $143,472,000, demands attention first and recent reports from Mexico City are to the effect that payment of interest on the foreign debt will be resumed at once. The government is in arrears in interest payments on the whole debt in about $83,616,000. But a comparatively small portion of this is on account of the foreign obligations.

It is to be borne in mind, of course, that old issues do not constitute all of Mexico's debt to other nations. There is to be added to the items mentioned above the claims for damages sustained by foreign citizens during the seven years of internal disorder that succeeded the Madero regime. Estimates of these losses range from $250,000,000 to $1,000,000,000, but it is not likely that a joint claims commission, after due examination, will be able to present a bill for more than the smaller estimate.

While these debts, taking into account Mexico's national income, are heavy, they are not impossible to meet. President Obregon has assured the world that Mexico will meet all her obligations to foreign countries, and with fair fortune he will be able to keep his promise.

IF TAXES MUST BE HIGH.

If Senator Smoot is correct, and there is no reduction of taxation in sight, it becomes particularly important for the country to get its taxation system on the best possible basis as soon as possible. If the existing system is holding back industry and contributing unduly to the cost of living, then it ought to be revised speedily. The theory of putting the load on incomes is that profits are so large they can stand almost any tax rate. In the emergency of the war the theory was accorded with the facts. Business made abnormal profits. Where prices were fixed they were deliberately fixed at a point to allow the least favorable industries to operate in order to encourage production, under the assumption that the more efficient concerns would pay a large share of what they made to the government.

The situation has changed. Profits are back to normal and below. The question is whether it is possible to continue to absorb so large a share of them as the government now demands without crippling industry. Business in general requires a certain margin of profit to keep it going. It is established by competition. If it falls below the line for a considerable time the business goes to the wall.

The huge amount now paid in the income tax cannot be deducted from profits over a term of years without upsetting business. The income tax must be shifted to the consumer directly or indirectly. If it is shifted directly in higher prices, then it is shifted indirectly by preventing the development of industry and keeping production down and prices up.

The existing system by its appropriation of profits and investment funds is promoting the industrial depression, helping keep men out of work, and boosting the cost of living. Seemingly to tax the rich, it is a needlessly heavy burden on the whole country.—Kansas City Times.

NOTES and COMMENT

The curtailment of the Southern Pacific service have no relation to the controversy now on before the Railroad Commission, but there will be a general tendency to connect the two matters. Taking account of human nature, a good many will figure that it may be the curtailment is intended to show what can be done when the big corporation is thwarted and defied.

The naval appropriation, it is feared, is loaded, and there is a prospect that Senator Borah will have his way to an extent, and the appropriation be reduced some forty-eight millions rather than a split in the ranks so soon after the change in the administration. It is disclosed quite forcibly that the party now in power consists of some others than the head, as formerly.

The organized tailors wanted the delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor to take off their coats so that the labels could be examined to determine whether any of the garments were scab-made. It may have been logical, but it was not practical.

Efforts of Yale to find another tune than "Bright College Years" for the song, "Bright College Years," has failed, though a prize was offered for another setting. It is notable that, after all that has happened, there was not suitable melody to supplant this tune that was written to celebrate a "watch" which was routed good and plenty, and wouldn't seem to be in good college measure, anyhow.

A down east journal charges that during the war certain naval officers, with the knowledge and consent of Secretary Josephus Daniels, "instituted on board ships in active service a soviet form of control." But that is all over, the press has baited and had its fun with Josephus, and there is something else again on hand.

President Wilson says that what the world particularly needs at this time are men who are self-starters. Such men are always in demand, but occasionally a stopper is also needed for one who has self-started. And supplying it is a world job. The former kaiser is almost a case in point.

It is recalled that Vice-President Coolidge was to have a hand in the making of the fifth wheel as the president customarily do. It has not been noticed that he has functioned yet in this way, though this is to be said of Coolidge: He is not much of a butter-in, though quite capable when he finds himself opposite a straightforward job.

The Medford Mail-Tribune appears to be seeing red: "Jack Dempsey visited a dentist Thursday. It is hoped he will have to make the same trip after Mr. Carpenter gets through. The universal prayer is that he gets a worse licking than the Democratic party at the last election."

IN THE GREAT SILENT (?) PLACES.

HOW THE INDIANS EVOLVED CORN FROM WILD GRASS

The plant which botanists have always considered the probable ancestor of our present varieties of maize is a wild grass called teosinte. They have long believed that the presence of Indian corn in America represented an evolution brought about by crude plant-breeding methods of the Indians, extending through untold centuries. Luther Burbank, in order to prove the truth of this theory, has now carried the plant through successive developments and produced perfect ears of corn in the miraculously short period of eighteen years. Public announcement of this prodigy, which has been proceeding quietly at Burbank's experimental farm in California since 1903, and which constitutes one of the most notable achievements of the plant wizard's life, has just been made.

In its earlier stage of "pod" corn, in which each kernel was enclosed in a separate sheath, or husk, like wheat, teosinte represented, no doubt, a hard-fought survival and adaptation like that of the flowering violet. And when the Indians came into its environment it responded to their influence as the names responded to care and cultivation in its more dooryard home.

Where teosinte had formerly relied upon the frosts to loosen up the ground for the seed, it found in the Indian a friend who crudely but effectively scratched the soil and doubled the chance for its baby plant to grow. Where it had been choked by plant enemies, and starved for air and sunlight by weeds, it found in the Indian a friend who cut down and kept off its competitors. Where it had been destroyed by animals before its maturity, it found the selfish protection of the savages as grateful as if it had been inspired by altruism.

Planted in patches, instead of struggling here and there as best it could before, the teosinte grass found its multiplication problem made easier through the multitude of pollen grains now floating through the air. And so, by slow degrees, it responded to its new environment by bearing more and bigger seed. As the seed kernels increased in number and size, the cob, that bare stem grew in length. From two, the rows of kernels increased to four, to six, to eight, to fourteen. Here, again, the selfish motives of the savages served to help the plant in its adaptation—for only the largest ears and those with the best kernels were saved for seed. So, under cultivation, the wild grass almost disappeared, and in its place there came, through adaptation, the transformed Indian corn.

This, in brief, summarizes Burbank's theory of the original evolution of teosinte into corn. How many centuries were required to bring about the development we can only conjecture, for when white settlers came to America they found not the tiny wild teosinte, but Indian corn, or maize, bearing eight-inch ears, with fourteen rows of large kernels to the ear—nature's response to the simple plant-breeding methods of the savage. It is not even known how long the Indians had been cultivating this improved corn. That it was long before the appearance of Europeans, however, is evident not only from its early and widespread cultivation by tribes of the area now embraced in the United States, but from the fact that indications of its cultivation are found in mounds and in the ancient pueblo ruins and cliff dwellings.

It was nature's scheme of producing variations—her apparently unalterable will to create no duplicates—that opened up to Burbank his opportunity to carry forward the evolution of teosinte into corn in a comparatively few seasons. In his experiments with the plant, he produced more than 10,000 specimens on his grounds. Among these thousands he found some offspring which were an improvement over the parent plants. It was then simply a matter of continued and intensive application of scientific methods of selection, from season to season, until the final result was achieved. During his experiments with teosinte Burbank not only changed the plant into corn, but incidentally created one of the most productive fodder plants on earth, and extended the latitude in which it can be profitably grown nearly or quite one thousand miles farther north and south. Therefore all teosinte had to be raised in Southern Florida or some tropical climate, but Burbank's improved varieties, developed as a result of his scientific plant breeding, will produce, even in the northern states, fifty times as much fodder as the commonly cultivated teosinte of the south, and fifty times the amount of grain.

Burbank's experiment with teosinte is a striking example of the fact that the plant breeder, simply by taking the variations which Nature gives him, can effect wonderful improvements in her plants, and, by urging Nature into new variations through cross-breeding, can create at will an infinite number of new combinations or characteristics from which to select.—Robert H. Moulton in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

About YOUR HEALTH

Why Proper Breathing
Should Be Stammerer's Goal
By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Nothing is more embarrassing to victim or listener than a pronounced speech defect. The struggles and contortions of the afflicted mortal are painful to behold. His unhappiness is apparent and, unless he is very brave, he avoids the necessity for conversation. He does not want to be laughed at or pitied.

Stammering and stuttering are the most common forms. Lispering, too, is frequently met.

A cleft palate produces a similar and unmistakable defect in speech.
Obstruction of the nose from catarrh or polypus interferes with proper resonance and gives a flatness to the voice.

In stammering there is the substitution of many sounds for the one the person is trying to produce. In stuttering there may be terrible convulsions of the face and mouth before any sound is uttered. When the word is produced, after all these efforts, it may come out perfectly normal and natural.

Stammering is sometimes the result of imitation. Unconsciously we imitate the manner of speech and the tone of one with whom we associate constantly.

When once the habit is acquired it is difficult to overcome. The victim becomes sensitive. He stops talking, having lost confidence in himself. It is difficult, indeed, to restore this confidence, and to make the person believe he can really speak normally.

Most persons with speech defects breathe improperly. They must be taught how to breathe correctly.

Speech depends on perfect voice machinery. That is, all the vocal organs must be normal in form and function.

The hearing power must be normal or else the victim will not be able to control his speech. It is a common thing to observe the altered voice in the totally deaf.

The last factor in normal speech production is the possession of proper brain action. Excessive nervousness, self-consciousness, poor brain circulation, or ill health may disturb the speech centers. Excitement, emotion and other psychological states may result in impaired vocal action.

Every person troubled by a speech defect must be studied as an individual. Its particular cause may differ in some respects from all others. Patience, persistence and good sense are essential to the cure.

The child must be gently and kindly treated. By patient efforts the trouble may be overcome.

It must be said, in general, that experts in vocal training and the correction of speech defects are sure to win better results than can be won by an amateur. Every large community has its clinic or instructor for speech improvement.

DRY'S APPEAL REJECTED BY SUPERVISORS

Request That An Ordinance
Be Passed for Enforcement of Volstead Act Is Refused;
One Member Only Favors

The request of former Senator E. E. Grant, head of the State Law Enforcement League, that Alameda county pass an ordinance for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment was denied by the Board of Supervisors today following a motion by Supervisor R. C. Staats of Berkeley that the suggested law be adopted.

Chairman W. J. Hamilton asked, following a short discussion, if there was a second to the motion. None was forthcoming and Hamilton ruled that this ended the matter.

Staats declared that legislative bodies everywhere should be in enforcing the law, whether it be national or otherwise. Supervisor D. J. Murphy said the President had laid down certain rules in wartime and the nation as a whole had passed the amendment. He said it was therefore a matter for the federal government to handle.

Hamilton called attention to the fact that the people of California had voted against prohibition, to which Staats replied that the national law had been passed by a majority of the states and that under the American rule of government by majorities this bound all of the states to aid in enforcing it. Hamilton also said there were no saloons in the county so far as the supervisors knew.

Mrs. Edna Overacker and Miss Genevieve McKee were reappointed members of the county board of education for two years, their terms having expired.

Dr. J. C. Holland was instructed to furnish literature concerning Alameda county to California real estate men attending the national convention in Chicago from July 12 to 15, for distribution there.

The board voted to appropriate $750 for a July 4 celebration in Alameda and $500 for the rodeo at Livermore.

The request of the California Development board that Alameda county participate with other counties in establishing a great exhibit in the ferry building in San Francisco was referred to J. E. Caine, Alameda county's representative on the development board.

The services will be conducted by the Rev. E. M. Erickson, Edith Erikberg, Elaine Peterson and Olga Gustafson, of which order MacRae was a charter member.

City Projects Held Up When Planners Quit

The resignation of the entire personnel of the City Planning Commission yesterday leaves many important projects for civic betterment and improvement high in the air, as disclosed today after a survey of matters which are pending before the Commission.

Each of these projects, it is admitted, must now wait till a new City Planning Commission is appointed, or until the idea of having such an organization is abolished. Because of the pressing nature of some of these projects, it is asserted that pressure will be brought to bear for the immediate appointment of a new commission.

The matters now held in abeyance include:

Decision on forming an apartment house district north of Lake Merritt.

The Oak Park district zoning question.

The cutting of a right-of-way from Walsworth to Oakland avenues.

The Melrose residential zone question, affecting the Foothill boulevard.

Steps up for approval, including several realty tracts, which dealers desire to be opened.

Proposed street opening.

All these matters had been referred to the Planning Commission by the City Council, and it is asserted that unless a new commission be appointed quickly, the Council itself must take action.

The City Planning Commission had just started on a project to make an airplane map-picture of Oakland, showing exactly what is in every district of the city. It was planned to make a gigantic panorama map of the city in this way, the most complete of its kind ever attempted. This is now held in abeyance with the rest.

Temporary Structure Back of Auditorium Is Urged; Council Loth to Act Until the Return of the Mayor

Loath to take action toward the construction of a depot for the National Guard batteries behind the auditorium until the Mayor returns, the City Council this morning deferred action on the project until tomorrow, although National Guard officers and Joseph E. Caine of the Chamber of Commerce were present to urge immediate action.

The Mayor introduced a statement, saying he is agreeable to the erection of a $7500 corrugated iron structure temporarily, but is against a permanent building on this site which will come day, he intimates, be the great civic center for Oakland.

The guard is agreeable to a temporary structure, said Caine. "It is my opinion that the temporary building will not be disturbed for several years."

Captain Fahy of B battery urged haste, asserting that $500,000 of federal material is here or on the way for B and E batteries. The stable, he explained, is another project, as soon must later be found for the horses. Fahy prophesied that in a few years the batteries will all be motorized.

"The problem," said Commissioner Edwards, "is one of tenure of occupancy."

"The guard is willing to take a chance," said Caine.

EXPLAINED BY MAYOR.

The Mayor, in his letter, said he had hoped to win the $1,000,000 state armory and exposition building, and described in detail how his effort was finally foiled. In conclusion, he said:

"The area from First street to Twelfth and from Fallon street on the west to Fifth avenue on the east is one of the most valuable assets possessed by any city in the United States today. The location is ideal for development as a civic and recreation center which will benefit the people of Oakland for many generations to come. This land is to be filled this year and will add six million dollars in property value to the city, and I am absolutely opposed to the erection of a permanent structure there which will interfere with the plans of its development as center for our people."

The Council empowered City Attorney Hagan to defend the city in a suit to quiet title brought against it by the Parr Terminal Company.

The Parr Company, in order to establish the validity of its lease on a half mile of the western waterfront, has filed a suit to quiet title, so as to allow the courts to determine just what parts of the lease are valid and what are not.

"So far as I am concerned it is far from a friendly suit," promised Hagan.

All bids for the improvement of fifty-eight street south of East Fourteenth street were rejected because property owners have complained that present prices are too high.

IMMIGRATION MEN OUSTED.

SAN DIEGO, June 23.—Three immigration officers, D. O. Grimes, E. T. Hunter and P. McManley, today were dismissed from the service on the grounds that they misappropriated seven gallons of whisky to their own use from a whisky smuggling machine.

Oldest Lumber Man in California Dies

STOCKTON, June 23.—Andrew W. Simpson, reputed to be the oldest lumberman in California, died yesterday at the family home in this city. A native of Maine, where he was born July 15, 1831, he came to California in November, 1851, locating in Stockton, entering the lumber business in 1852 with George Gray, continuing in the industry until 1913.

During his residence here he acquired valuable realty and has been a director of the Stockton Savings and Loan Society Bank since 1876. Surviving him are two daughters and one son, Mrs. Minot Tirrell, Bertha C. Simpson and A. W. Simpson Jr. of Stockton.

A funeral will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Fifty Tons of Hay Destroyed by Fire

PATTERSON, June 23.—Fire caused by spontaneous combustion destroyed 50 tons of hay at the Bridgford dairy, near here, and resulted in injury to several volunteer firefighters. Regan Kidd was rescued after he had been blinded by a spray of sulphuric acid, and rushed here for medical treatment. His eyesight will not be permanently injured. Several others were scorched by the flames and partially burned by acid, which the firemen employed in recharging their extinguishers. The fire company did splendid work in saving the Bridgford home, barns and other buildings. Nearly 100 volunteers gathered at the scene, but despite their efforts it was not until hours later that the flames were extinguished.

GIRL SAVED FROM DEATH UNDER TRAIN

Motorcyclist Pushes Companion to Safety; His Leg Is Crushed in Accident Believed Due to Repair Work

BERKELEY, June 23.—Caught under a Southern Pacific train at the California and Prince street crossing here last night when he lost control of the motorcycle on which he was riding, a girl, Richard Stockton, 2240 Adeline street, son of Dr. Clair Stockton, pushed his companion from the rails but sustained a fractured left leg as a result of his bolting. The girl, whose identity has not been learned, was uninjured. Stockton was taken to Fabiola Hospital, Oakland, where his condition today was said to be improved.

The girl, whose first name, according to the police, is Amelia, and who lives in the vicinity of the Bayview school, was riding on a motorcycle with Stockton. They were riding in Prince street at a slow rate of speed when a train approached the crossing from California street.

According to Dr. J. N. Abbott of 1427 Oak street, Alameda, who saw the accident, Stockton could have made the crossing easily and without danger had it not been for the fact that the street intersection was being repaired, and sand on the pavement hindered the machine's progress. As the machine drew near the track, held by the sand, the driver saw that it would be impossible to keep on, and to avoid hitting the train, turned his machine parallel with it.

As he turned, he lost control of the motorcycle, throwing himself and his passenger under the wheels in the rear of the first truck. Stockton, while lying on the tracks under the train, pushed his girl and pushed her from under the train before the rear truck passed. He was caught in the wheels, however, and sustained a crushed left leg and cuts and bruises about the body. Stockton was taken to the hospital by Dr. Abbott.

Mystery Theft of Pet Canary Bandit Gang Is Led by Girl Wife Gives Purse to Wrong Man

The strange theft of the truant canary, as brought to the attention of the police by Mrs. Flora V. Lohsen, 1407 Second avenue, is holding first place in the deductive minds of the Oakland police.

Complainant says she was feeding her bird with bread crumbs at a window open. The bird escaped and flew out of the window describing a parabola into the street. As Mrs. Lohsen leaned out of the window to get the bird, she saw a man reach out of a passing automobile in the manner of a corner assassin, saw the bird close upon the bird, and heard a tool as the car disappeared. She turned in the license number of the car and the police are confident that the man who shot the canary birds on the wing will be apprehended before another sun has set. No peep has been heard from the bird.

WOMAN PUTS PURSE INTO WRONG HAND

Mrs. Ella Collingwood, 2314 Woodruff avenue, is just wondering that at 11 p.m. last night while she was riding on the street-car with her husband she handed her purse to him for safe keeping. When they got off the car it was discovered that he did not have the purse and did not know what it was she was talking about. Two rings worth $200 were inside.

What Mrs. Collingwood would like to find out is who, of all the men on the crowded car, owned the hand into which she thrust the pocketbook?

BOY OF 7 AND LAMP CAUSE EXCITEMENT

Adolph Schwanmer Jr., aged 7, for one brief moment was the center of excitement and activity, causing a lighted lamp, a sense of responsibility, and an uneven balance started toward his bedroom last night and tripped his toe. All this would have been had enough for Adolph, but it so happened that he tripped on a can of coal oil, that the oil spread, the lamp broke and the boy's whole world leaped up in dancing flame.

After the fire department, Adolph's parents, several hundred neighbors and small boys from miles around were all through. Adolph was sent to bed in the part of the house that was left. The damage is estimated at $1500 and the house number is—or was—2035 Ninety-fourth avenue.

CITY ATTORNEY HAGAN RESIGNS IN GROSS LOTS

City Attorney Hagan started resigning again today.

Hagan recently sent his resignation to the council as city attorney of Oakland, effective at 5 p.m. on June 30. The council on Tuesday accepted his resignation without comment. The angle of the affair was definitely decided.

The city attorney, however, is not only city attorney but he acts as ex-officio member of various boards and commissions. After a survey of the whole lot, Hagan today began to take steps toward resigning from each one of them, preparing a sort of rubber-stamp form of resignation which his supporters can vote out on short notice. Each resignation is equipped with a time-fuse set for 5 p.m. on June 30.

Hagan today mailed his resignation as secretary-treasurer of the water commission of the East-bay cities, as a member of the now inactive city planning commission, as a member of the city's board of inquiry into accidents, and as a member of various investigating committees. More resignations will be forthcoming tomorrow.

"If I keep up at this pace," says Hagan, "I think I will be thoroughly resigned when June 30 rolls around."

SHIP PLANT AT ALAMEDA TO CONTINUE

Schwab Due in Few Days to Discuss Plans for Operation. States Tynan; Diesel Engines Factory Is Hired

Continued operation of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation's shipyards at Alameda despite the closing of the government shipbuilding program is assured with the announcement today of Joseph J. Tynan, vice-president and general manager of the corporation, who has returned from a visit in the East, where he conferred with President Charles M. Schwab.

Tynan said that Schwab would make a tour of inspection of the properties on the bay within the next ten days and that a definite announcement would follow. It was intimated that the two yards, the one in Alameda and the one at Hunters Point, would be used by the company for the manufacture of diesel engines.

The Alameda plant, Tynan said, is finishing the program of merchant marine vessels and, with the exception of two large ore carriers, the construction of the shipyard work off the ways. A large amount of repair work is still being done and will, in all probability, be continued as a feature of the Alameda yards. At the Union yard the destroyer contracts are filled. The company, it is said, built one-fifth of the destroyers for the United States navy at the Union yards and sent many of them into service against the submarines of the Germans in the World War.

"Mr. Schwab will arrive here within ten days for a general inspection of the yards here," Tynan said. "He will also make a survey of the shipbuilding situation on the Pacific Coast. There will be considerable adjustments made at the local points, but I am unable to state at present, but changes will be made to meet the present shipbuilding situation."

Tynan arrived home on the new ship Silver Star, which was accompanied by his two daughters, Margaret E. and Josephine M., and his son, Joseph J. Tynan Jr.

Alameda Masons Pay Visit to Richmond

ALAMEDA, June 23.—Thirty members of Alameda Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, journeyed to Richmond last night and conferred the most important degree upon a class of candidates from that city. Following the ceremony an entertainment and luncheon was held.

The members of the Lyman Guard, accompanied by their wives, will take automobiles in front of the Masonic Temple, Park street, Saturday night and journey out to a place in the country where they are to be met by a sub-committee and entertained with a dinner and banquet. The party will leave Alameda at 5:30.

SAN JOSE BASEBALL CLUB SEEKS REINSTATEMENT OF HAL CHASE

OAKS LOSE ANOTHER TOUGH ONE TO THE BEES; PORTLAND DROPS 20 OUT OF LAST 22 GAMES

STRIKE-OUT PITCHERS, GOOD BASE STEALERS BECOMING VERY SCARCE

Plenty of Marvels in C Coast League, But They Fail to Take Chances On the Bases.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

It is some little time since the discovery was made of the rarity that strikeout pitchers in the Pacific Coast League have gotten to be, and fans would give almost any admission price nowadays just to see some of those famous strikeout pitchers in action again. No more do we see the pitchers striking out sometimes six, seven or eight in a row such as pitchers like Harry Sator, Gene Krapp, Veau Gregg, Cack Henly, "Dutch" Klawitter and others used to do nine or ten years ago. Today the pitchers are tickled if they can win their games without striking out one man. Some time ago it wasn't considered much of a feat for a pitcher to pitch a two or three-hit game unless he fanned at least ten batters.

At present, Paul Hittery of the Sacramento club, is about the only strike-out chucker in the Coast league, but he is far from being in a class with any of those mentioned above. To have Hittery strike out three batters in a row in 1910 when Sator, Gregg, Krapp, Henly, Lavelle and other good chuckers were in the Coast league, wouldn't cause much excitement among the fans, for such a feat then was just regarded as an everyday occurrence.

League Is Also Shy Of Good Base Stealers.

Lack of strike-out pitchers in the Coast league wasn't what was first intended for calling attention to. Besides being very shy in that department, the Coast league is also missing the high class base thieves that it used to have. There are no really speedy men in the Coast league today as there were ten years ago, but it seems that they don't study the art of base stealing like former speedsters used to.

Here is the Pacific Coast league on its twelfth week of the season and the highest number of base steals is nineteen, credited to Mervyn Kopp of Sacramento. Claude Cooper and Babe Pinelli of the Oaks are speedy men on their feet, but they can't get away with the amount of base steals they figure to.

Among the fact they aren't listed as leading base stealers are Knop McGuffigan, Charlie Pick, Justin Fitzgerald, Schick and Billy Lane figure to have more base steals to their credit than they have. Of course the class outfielders in the league are the ones who are the best in a few years, and that cut a figure, but you don't find the men so anxious to swipe bases as the players of the Coast league.

Portland Beavers Have Lost Eleven in a Row.

Old saying, "Don't count your chickens before they are hatched," certainly fits well in the case of the Beavers. The hope in the Coast league being all upset because the Oaks took such a beating last week, and then took on the Portland Beavers and dropped the first game, it is figured that they would have an easy time with Cravath's boys.

Beavers by the Bees were won by one-run margins, and although there are chances to win the game, the Bees are able to set a Coast league record for swiping bases when a member of the team is on the path when he was in his prime. The fans certainly are not entertained by not seeing the strike-out pitchers and base runners of days.

Harry Krause Gets Bumped By Salt Lake

Oaks Lose Second Game in a Row, But Put Up a Hard Tussle.

Stung! And stung again! That's what the Salt Lake Bees have done to the Oakland Baseball Club. Foreman Brown, Mize picked Harry Krause to shoot them at the Bees at Recreation Park, and Harry shot them at the Bees alright, but those Bees shot them right back past Harry and when the Bees were going to hit in the third inning Harry was out under the shower in the club house and the Oakland southpaw was left to his fate. He was to be charged with a defeat. The Bees won their second contest in a row by the marking of one run over the Oaks, yesterday's count being 5 to 4.

All five of the runs were made off Harry Krause, who pitched the seven remaining frames. The Bees were none other than the "Ever" Bees, the same team that won the four hits and no runs, and today the Bees were wondering why it is that they didn't start him in the box first. But all managers could guess right all the time in picking their pitchers, everybody would be sporting perfect records.

IT ALL HAPPENED QUICK.

Today Signin welcomed Krause on the mound by hitting a double, and he spiked the pan when Heinie Signin poked out a single. Krause got out of the next three batters without trouble.

Paul Strand also gave Krause a new reception in the second inning by hitting one of his shots into the left field stands for a home run and a free hit. Lynn and Gray were easy for Krause, but Jack Bromley, who did all the chugging for the Bees, started some more trouble by hitting a single to center. Signin got his second hit of the game, and Sano cleaned up by cracking out a double, so the Bees were leading 5 to 0. Bruker took care of Brown's grounder for the first out.

OAKS PUT UP FIGHT.

The Oaks were through as far as fighting was concerned for they went out in their half of the same inning and got three runs. An error put Hank Miller on base, but he was out in the next inning. The Oaks were poor fighting in being caught trying to steal second, for Jack Knight followed with a two-bagger. Guilest was safe on an error by Signin, and Bruker chased Knight home with another double.

Koehler's double scored Guilest and Bruker, but Krause went to bat and flew to Sand at third, and Pinelli was out via Sano. The Oaks were out in the eighth inning after two more runs. Krause hit a two-bagger, and Knight chased him home with his second double of the game, but he failed to get in on the third out. Krause hit a two-bagger, and Knight chased him home with his second double of the game, but he failed to get in on the third out.

A PAIR OF SWIMMING CHAMPIONS

On the left is STUBBY KRUGER, former St. Mary's College swimming champion and one of the best paddlers on the Pacific coast. Posing with Stubby is MISS ETHELDA BLEIBTREY, the most sensational girl swimmer in the world. Miss Bleibtrey has been spending the last few months fracturing world's records established by Miss Fanny Durack, the Australian champion.

Swimming experts predict that within a year Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey will break every record established by Fanny Durack, the Australian mermaid, who has held a set of records for many years. Miss Bleibtrey is still a young girl and has not yet reached her best form. She will take part in the national mile race for women at Capitola Sunday.

HAL CHASE TRYING TO 'COME BACK' WITH THE MISSION LEAGUE AGAIN

D. M. Denegri Starts Movement to Let Indicted Star Play With the San Jose Club

SAN JOSE, June 23.—Local baseball circles were startled into a wave of controversy today with the leaking out of information to the effect that Hal Chase, premier first baseman of all time and at present under indictment by the Cook county, Illinois, grand jury in connection with the world series baseball scandal of 1919, seeks to regain a place on the San Jose team of the Mission league.

Indications were, according to D. M. Denegri, city councilman and part owner of the San Jose club, that an attempt will be made to have the ban on Chase removed by the Mission league directors, who last year voted to oust him. Denegri declared that Gilroy, Salinas and Watsonville directors of the league have reported that they favor the star player's reinstatement and that if the public is desirous of having Chase in the lineup of the local club he will probably be there.

Denegri further stated that he would welcome a vote of the fans of this city, or of the entire Mission league circuit, on the question of whether or not Chase should be allowed to play.

"We feel that Chase's guilt has never been established. While the evidence against him is damning it is nevertheless the apparent desire of the San Jose fans to have the star player back in the game," said Denegri today. "It would boost the game in this city and the standing of the local club to have the big fellow back in the lineup. He is anxious to play and would jump into a uniform the minute the word of permission would be granted."

CLAIMS CHASE POPULAR.

The other indicted players in the East have been drawing tremendous crowds with their exhibition games in Chicago and other cities. The fans there seem to want to forget the past, feeling that the men, if they are guilty, must surely have learned their lesson by this time, and that their presence in the game goes to boost its calling.

By FRED L. KRUMB
President Mission League

There is not a chance of Chase playing ball in the Mission league. I know the directors of most of the clubs do not want him. Gilroy is indignant at the idea of trying to reinstate the player and Bill Leonard told me that the Watsonville club would not stand for Chase. The others feel the same way about it. H. O'Connor, a director of the San Jose team, wrote to me asking if Chase was eligible to play. He stated that the player would attend our meeting at Gilroy next Saturday and state his side of the case. Chase, he said, was very anxious to play ball again. The matter will be taken up at the meeting, but there should be little discussion as there is no room in the Mission league for men like Hal Chase.

ARLETT WILLING TO QUIT

"If Hal Chase is allowed to play with the San Jose team I'm through with the league," said Pop Arlett, manager of the Gilroy team this morning when informed that a movement was on foot to reinstate the former big leaguer.

There is no truth in the report that Gilroy is in favor of letting Chase play in the league and I am positive Watsonville will not stand for him. Personally I cannot afford to play ball in the same league with Chase and my resignation takes effect the moment he is reinstated. Most of the other managers and players in the league feel the same way about it.

NO GAMER CREW THAN BRUINS EVER RACED, IS OPINION IN THE EAST

Wonderful Finish of the University of California Oarsmen Is Feature of Regatta.

By MALCOLM ROY

HIGHLAND, N. Y., June 23.—The navy triumphed in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson yesterday afternoon, but the real outstanding feature of the race was the wonderful University of California crew which, coming from the ruck, raced up from fifth place and in one of the most thrilling finishes the old Hudson has ever seen wrestled second place from Cornell by a scant three feet.

It was a moral victory for the Pacific coast champions, even if it was not an actual one, and the California names are on every one's lips today. The Berkeley crew defeated the best in the east with the sole exception of the Navy and by one of the grittiest fights ever seen in a boat race. They battled their way from a trailing place to second place beside the world's champion navy eight.

Incidentally they wiped clean from the record the time of the defeat by Princeton, which was suffered before the coast oarsmen had found themselves and became accustomed to conditions in the East. The Navy eight swept across the line five lengths ahead of the Californians in 14 minutes and 7 seconds, establishing a new course record. California's time for the three nines was 14 minutes 22 seconds and Cornell's time was 14 minutes 22 seconds.

Al Karasick to Meet Parks in Return Match

Al Karasick and Douglas Park have been matched for a return wrestling match at the Astor Pavilion, Twelfth and Harrison streets, next Tuesday night, after a hard fought battle in the fifth place and the much-vaunted Columbia eight was in last place and an eight-man crew from Columbia was a full minute behind the one crossing the finish line. One of the greatest crowds that ever saw a boat race, the students of the University of California, who were expected to approach the 100,000 mark, came to see the big races and every mother's son and daughter of them were seen at the end cheering California as if that was his crew, and his alone. The Navy, eighth place, limped away out in front, was forgotten, completely lost sight of and no one saw anything but the California crew.

Karasick attended the carnival at Forty-fifth and San Pablo avenue yesterday night and lost a fair amount of the carnival champion Ted Smith. Tonight he will tackle another heavyweight named Warner. Karasick is only a middleweight but he handles the heavies with ease.

BEARS WILL SEE THE SIGHTS IN THE EAST.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—The University of California crew which started the rowing world intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson yesterday by finishing second in the first race, will see the sights in the East today for a return trip home. The anti-trust case against the New York Stock Exchange toward the record in New York, which will witness the Yale-Harvard race, will see the sights in the East today for a return trip home. Navy Eight Gets Break At Start.

As had been expected, the Navy eight got the break at the start and shot away to a lead of a length in the first race. The Harvard crew, in second place and Pennsylvania, Columbia, California and Syracuse followed. The California crew, which had been in the lead, was in the back of the pack. The Navy eight, which had been in the back of the pack, was in the lead.

GOLE BY W.D. NICOLL

Early this morning with the sun low in the sky, the regatta was in full swing. The California crew, which had been in the lead, was in the back of the pack. The Navy eight, which had been in the back of the pack, was in the lead.

California Whittles Down Cornell Lead

All the nine points of getting a hard race on was defeated by the Navy eight. The West can be proud of the boys for that sprint put on in the last mile was simply great. Coach Glendon of the Navy 14 to be congratulated and I must say that seldom does one meet cleaner sportsmen.

UNFIRE CATCHES FIRE.

In a game at Sheffield in the Alabama-Tennessee league, Alvin Clark after donning his protector, decided to smoke a cigarette. He set fire to himself and it took the boys and several players to put out the blaze and save his limbs from serious damage. He was taken to the hospital, but is expected to be out in a few days.

GATE RECEIPTS AT BIG FIGHT MAY TOP MILLION AND HALF MARK

AMERICAN GOLFERS TEE OFF AT OLD ST. ANDREW'S IN WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

Actresses Have Same Privileges as Scribes At Camp of Carpenter

By Ring W. Lardner.

GREAT NECK, N. Y., June 23.—Monday and Tuesday is the at home day in the Carpenter camp, and the theory is that on them two days experts can crash the gate and watch the Frenchman go through his stunts. Well, the term experts seems to include such members of the tribe as had obtained a certain degree of skill in pruning the eye-brow. In fact, the last time I graced the chicken yard where Georges was inched pretty near 1/2 of the spectators were members of New York's exclusive correspondent colony, and it was quite a chore for even an old married map with four cunning off-springs to keep his eyes focused on what is generally accepted as the roped arena.

That a good many of the ladies was of the theatrical world did not come as a big surprise as I have often noticed that when they're going to be a championship fight, the dress rehearsals of the 2 beneficiaries are generally always witnessed by celebrities of the speaking stage as well as stars of the silent drama who I have nicknamed Dumb actresses, and you would find all the great ball players there too, if they could get away.

On the other hand, theaters and ball yards are always infested by champion bugs. It's an eternal triangle of ophor worship and us poor writers can only stand on the outside looking in and wished we had sold our birthright for a mess of caulflower ears.

The walls of the barn where Georges does some of his indoor work are with Dixie and Jeff cartoons and pictures of a well known fighter named Carpenter. One of the last named shows him being carried out like he would half to leap a whole lot higher if he wanted to get out even Willard was still able to walk.

No Laughing Allowed in Georges' Camp

Along about 3 o'clock I looked away from one of the blond heroines of the poetic drama "Ladies night" long enough to witness the arrival of Georges and his retinue, of which the most impressive figure to me is always old Joe Jeannette, the man of my story once a month for 15 years and kept his features. Speaking about features it was quite a strain on the naked eye to leap direct from the aforesaid blonde's smooth cheeks to Italian Joe Gans' folded ear.

The first number on Georges' program, was bag punching in the barn which I had watched a couple of times before and enough is enough. Afterwards he clumb in the ring and boxed with Jeannette, Gans and Journee, and I guess they no need of me describing same in detail only to say that a female fan about 14 years old laughed out loud and got called down by Manager Descamps. I set this down as a warning to people who expect to have ruckus seats the big fight, namely you must not laugh out loud even when you remember paying $50 for your ticket.

Carpenter didn't cut loose with his sparring partners, and I heard the remark made that he is careful lot better boxer than he is a looking on, which is that is true I don't see why him and Descamps don't insist on fighting Dempsey in private.

Georges Practices Ten-Second Naps

The Gen. Opinion of people standing around me seemed to be that the frenchman was in the pink and that he looked every inch the fighter except his neck. I couldn't see nothing the matter with his neck, only, of course, that it ain't customary for a fighter to have one. After the sparring was over, Georges indulged in shadow boxing and jumping the rope and even laid down on the floor and practiced writhing, and they say he don't leave nothing unrehearsed. However, he looked to me of the ring on the shoulders of his admirers and may be prophetic, though of the ring at Jersey City.

In line with his strict attention to details, I was talking to a fellow expert that had been trying different times to see him and get an interview, but at every time he asked for Georges he told him he was asleep, so this expert said it looked to him like he even practiced 10 second naps.

Joe-Kelng to 1 side, you can't see Carpenter stripped for action and be sorry for him, and if I felt as good as he looks I believe I could almost be persuaded to face the man who one of the experts has so aptly termed the Manassa mauler, provided, of course, they was a $200,000 booby prize. On his way back to the farmhouse Georges seep me and smiled, which is going some for a famous athlete, as it generally takes them 9 to 10 years to recognize an expert's face, unless the expert has panned them in the public prints.

Blondes and others that the frenchman had to walk past them encouraged him with such remarks like "We are for you, Geo," and "Knock Dempsey dead," and etc. and, in fact, pretty near everybody in these parts appeared to be pulling the punches. The only one who didn't seem to feel pretty good, provided he ain't studied fight fans long enough to know that if Dempsey does happen to slip over an accidental punch and sample him up, the most of these same fish will crowd around Jack's dressing room, door in the hopes that when he comes out he will rub against them.

Inside Dope on the Little Four-Rounder

By BOB SHAND.

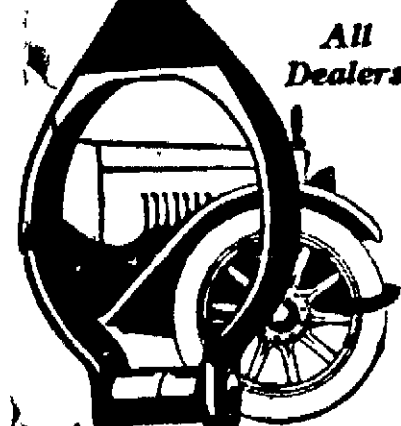

The last set of scraps at Neptune Beach last night furnished a few thrills even if the main event was somewhat of a joke. The city council yesterday revoked the permit granted to Ed Kling, but permission was granted to stage the battle last night. The promoters had been under heavy expense advertising the show. Bill Hard and Jimmy Norton, a pair of lumbering heavyweights, hooked up in the main event and nobody started a fight when the thing was called a draw.

A flock of knock-outs featured the other scraps. Chick Martin stopped one of Kid Cox's wallpops in the first round. Pete Smith was stopped in the second by Billy Williams and Roy Carter knocked out Bus Hymie in the third. Pat Tecky stopped Joe Menn.

Who'll Win?
MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 23.—Tom Willard, promoter and referee, "Dempsey will win if he is in condition. I have seen both and Dempsey is far superior—a big, hard-hitting machine. If the fight is open, expect to see Dempsey win in four or five rounds. If one of the two takes the defensive, the outcome may be different."

Willard Will Not Be At the Big Battle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. June 23.—Joe Willard, referee, told friends here today that he was too busy to be in Jersey City, N. J., for the big fight between Georges Dempsey-Carpenter championship fight.

CRITICISM OF TRAINING METHODS CAUSES GEORGES TO BECOME MORE SHY

Peeved Because Attention Is Called to Easy Manner in Which Sparring Partners Land

By JAMES J. CORBETT,

Former World's Heavyweight Champion

(Written especially for the International News Service)

(Copyright, 1921, by International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 23.—Attempts to size up Georges Carpenter by the showing of any of his sparring partners are unfair to the French champion as I see it. I noticed where the Journee-Weinert bout was mentioned in this connection, but I can't see for the life of me why Journee's showing should have anything to do with Carpenter or his chances against Jack Dempsey.

Carpenter can stop Journee with one punch and any time he wants to. He simply uses the big fellow to rough it with him. He lets Journee and all the rest of his sparring mates hammer him about the ring, for he needs that kind of work. If he didn't want Journee to hit him, take it from me, the big fellow wouldn't be able to lay a glove on Georges.

Joe Jeannette is the only one of Carpenter's sparring partners who has class enough to begin to make the French batter use his ring science, but you never see him doing it in Georges' public workouts, because it isn't his idea. Carpenter feels that he has been subjected to a lot of unjust criticism because of his system of training and he has had this impression for so long a time that he went into his shell farther than ever. That's one reason why he constantly refused to show more than a flash of his real ability.

Today training activities were resumed at Manhasset, after a two-day lay-off, with the exception of road work, which Georges did Tuesday and Wednesday. The slight rest was a welcome one to Carpenter, but with just ten days remaining between now and the date when he will step into the ring at Jersey City, the French titleholder will whip things up.

I got the idea of what Georges intends to do from a remark dropped inadvertently by Joe Jeannette yesterday. "Been taking it easy for a couple of days," said Jeannette. "But Georges will give us plenty to do from now on."

CARP'S FRIEND IS ENTERTAINED BY DEMPSEY.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 23.—

Georges Carpenter will be given a close up account of Jack Dempsey's fighting style and condition today by Pierre Mallet, close friend and adviser of the French champion, who watched Dempsey go through a forty-minute workout of bag punching and boxing yesterday afternoon. Mallet, who has been a friend of Carpenter's for 10 years and who has been with him in all of his important contests was impressed with Dempsey's condition and left-hand hitting.

The French visitor made no attempt to conceal his identity or the object of his visit and had nothing but praise for the heavyweight champion. "He appears to be in wonderful condition," Mallet said, "a magnificent specimen of a man. I am glad he was there." The champion said, "Any member of Carpenter's camp is always welcome. Even Carpenter and his manager would be welcome. I am glad Carpenter thinks he is going to win. I want a real fight."

Dempsey Good Natured and Not Worrying

Georges Also Appears to Not Have a Care in the World.

By HENRY L. FARRELL, NEW YORK Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, June 23.—As far as nerves are concerned, neither Jack Dempsey nor Georges Carpenter seem to be aware that "it is only nine days away."
Stories coming from Atlantic City about the bad humor the champion is putting into are wrong. He is just as amiable and congenial as he ever has been.
It is much easier to study Dempsey than Carpenter because the champion makes himself more accessible. It does not take a minute to observe, however, that he is in good spirits and is not worried or nervous.
Carpenter, who believes that he is being given a bad deal by the newspapers, permits reporters around his training camp only because he knows that he has to do it—and Rickard's putting the hell in his mind.
But, whatever may be the shortcomings of the Frenchman and he has lots of time to be not nervous or worried over the outcome of the fight.

Program for Georges Calls For Some Rest

Carpenter's Condition Is Satisfactory to His Trainers.

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 23.—Georges Carpenter boxed in public today for the last time before the championship battle. From now on, his program will be as follows:
Friday, easy road work, complete rest in afternoon.
Saturday, stiff workout with all sparring partners, practicing footwork and defensive tactics.
Sunday, rest.
Monday, light workout morning and afternoon.
Tuesday, rest.
Wednesday and Thursday, gymnasium work, and boxing, amount regulated by his condition and weight.
Friday, complete rest and ride to Jersey City.
Descamps is well satisfied with his man's condition but wishes he was not so close to fighting night.

Georges has been enough to work off ten pounds without feeling the strain but unfortunately has about a pound to spare.
In private, Carpenter keeps up the same smiling, carefree attitude he displays in public.
Georges said today he was tremendously impressed by the size of the arena at Jersey City. William Meenan of San Francisco in the first round of a scheduled twelve-round bout. It was Gibbons' eleventh straight knockout. Six blows were struck. Gibbons hit Meenan three times and Meenan hit Gibbons three times. Referee Matt Hinkel then stopped the bout.

Alas, Poor Willie, We Knew Him Well

CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, added another knockout to his record here last night when he defeated Willie Meenan of San Francisco in the first round of a scheduled twelve-round bout. It was Gibbons' eleventh straight knockout. Six blows were struck. Gibbons hit Meenan three times and Meenan hit Gibbons three times. Referee Matt Hinkel then stopped the bout.

HARVARD BEATS YALE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Harvard won the annual baseball series with Yale by adding to Tuesday's victory, a win yesterday of 15 to 4.

One Million, Six Hundred Thousand Dollar Gate

TERSEY CITY, June 23.—Promoter Tex Rickard is quite pleased with his new arena, thank you. The contractors have informed the promoter that there will be accommodations for 91,613 cash customers and ginny boys, and if the point is sold out the receipts will amount to a trifle of one million, six hundred thousand dollars. The fifty-dollar seats are reported all sold, but sections of the cheaper locations are still on the market. Five men were arrested in New York yesterday for selling bogus tickets, printed on their private press.

Frenchman Said To Be Hiding Real Ability

Smiles for Public, But Works Hard When Fans Are Absent.

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 23.—Georges Carpenter is hiding his real fighting ability behind a series of business public workouts. For some reason which his manager will not explain the aspirant to the world heavyweight title is entertaining his audience with smiles but working viciously in private.
During his morning roadwork out, when only his trainer and sparring partners are in sight, he goes through a series of strength developing stunts that a circus strong man might envy. He does such things as cutting down trees, lifting heavy boulders and tossing his sparring partners about as if they were baseballs.
The challenger is careful, however, not to show his speed or strength when strangers are about.

Frenchmen Are Not Backing Their Idol

PARIS, June 23.—Frenchmen are still slow to back their candidate in Georges Carpenter with money. Several wagers of six thousand to four thousand francs that Carpenter will lose have been taken by Frenchmen, but they are holding out for 3 to 1 on Dempsey. Americans here have millions of francs to cover Carpenter money, but there is very little in sight.

FRENCH SCRIBES LIKE CHANCES OF CARP.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Georges Carpenter has more than an even chance of carrying away the heavyweight boxing title, in the opinion of the vanguard of European sporting writers, who arrived yesterday aboard the new French liner Paris, on her maiden trip from Havre. Charles Le Beau, heavyweight champion of France, predicted Carpenter would knock Dempsey out in 6 rounds.

"I have seen both men in action," he said, "and base my opinion on personal observation. For the first time in his career Dempsey will be called upon to fight a brain Carpenter's brain, coupled with his strength and precision in hitting, will win."

Andrew Glerner, French track star, who will report the fight for the Excelsior and the Petit Parisien, said: "Every Frenchman is sending Carpenter the message: 'Bring home the bacon, and I am sure he will do it.'"

VALLEJO, June 23.—The Vallejo Tri-county League team will entertain the Petaluma baseball rivals here Sunday. This will be the first time that Petaluma has played here this season.

If a man is honest

-he will not object to having his Thumbprints published!

If a business is above board

-why should it object to having Its Thumbprints published?

-why should it object to Foreman & Clark advertising?

THUMBPRINTS can't lie. They tell nothing but facts. They are proof against faking, forging, counterfeiting.

There is a man in San Quentin who can raise a bank check from $5 to $5000. But he can't change a line of his own thumbprint.

Crooks fear thumbprints. Honest men are grateful for them.

THERE'S been an awful rumpus lately over certain of our ads.

The public liked 'em.

But the clothing system didn't.

One of our customers said: "The reason they are yelping is because your ads tell facts. They are like 'thumbprints' of the clothing system."

That idea has a punch. It suggested this ad.

Thumbprints of the clothing system!

Telling nothing but facts! Proof against faking, fuming and camouflaging!

There are oily-tongued advertising men in the clothing system who can raise a $25 suit to $50.

But they can't change a word of the TRUTH about their methods!

No wonder we sail into the clothing system with a sizzling wallop every now and then.

Read their thumbprint.

It says: "We, Grand Exalted Members of the Clothing System, proclaim our right to soak the public right and left.

"We, Majordomos of the Greatest SKin-game in the world, expect you clods of earth to cough up merrily when you buy a suit of clothes.

"We want:

"One profit for the retailer,

"One profit for middleman,

"One profit for the maker,

"One profit for the ground-floor rent-collector,

"One profit for the holy bunk of doing business.

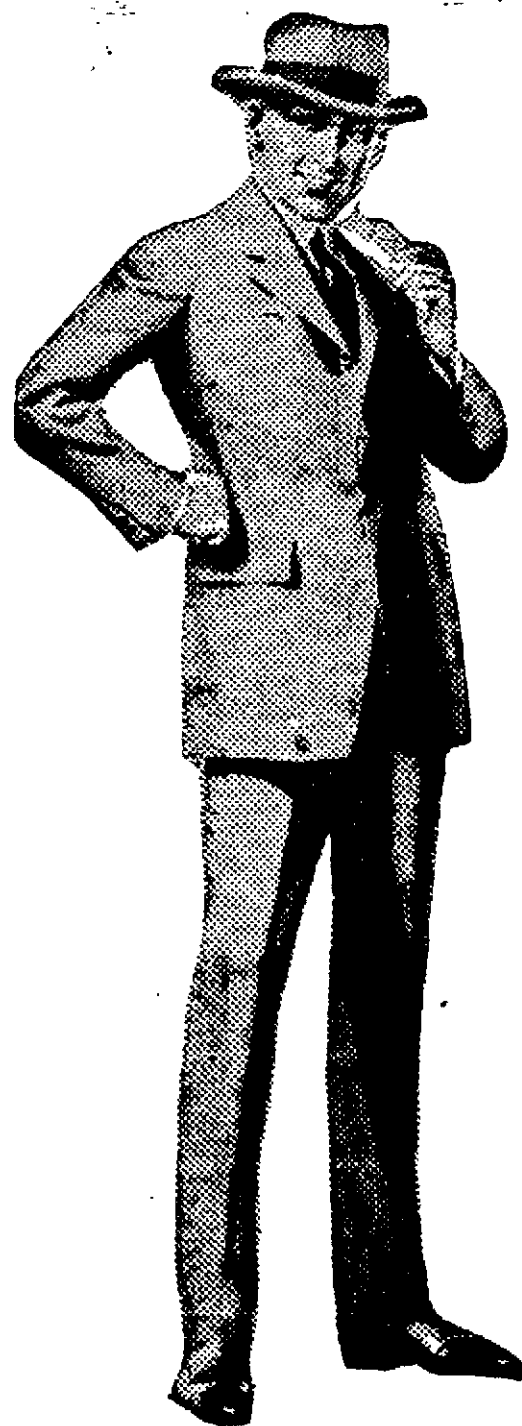

"Cough up!"

All the alibis in the world won't change these facts. They stand!

And—we stand against them.

They love us like poison—because we are cutting out this bunk, stripping off these profits, bringing guaranteed clothes direct to you from our factories—at $15 to $35.

And—because we are selling 5 times as many suits as any clothing store in the city.
